THE BOOMS.

A Recently Discovered Political Region.

SOLIDITY OF THE MINING COUNTIES.

The Mountains and the Valleys in Politics—The Prosecution of the Hydraulickers.

Colonel Markham of Pasadena, backed by the 18S votes of the Sixth Congressional district, which he once represented in Congress, and managed by Judge Carpenter of Los Angeles, Charles Bassett, General J. F. Sheehan and all of the press of the south, is not going to have such an easy road to the Governor's chair as some people imagine.

The first serious attack made on Colonel Markham was the charge that he was a leader among those who thought that the State of California was not big enough to include that fertile and happy land that lies south of the famous Tehachapi pass, and was once known as the home of the boom and the lament of the land-seeking unolunger from the shores of Maine. This was met with the reply that Colonel Markham had never—no, never—in his eight years of residence in Pasadena, harbored for an instant the wicked thought of raping from the State of California one atom of her charms, and he defied anyone to dare say a word to the contrary.

No one took up the challenge, and in the absence of written proof to the contrary, Colonel Markham's statement that he did not favor State division had to be accepted.

"But you had better nominate our candidate and not give us daily cause to think that the South is of no importance to the rest of the State," remarked the men from Orangeopolis, with rather wicked glances from under their broad brimmed hats.

"We do not ask much," they said. "All we want is Markham and we are afraid (this said with a deprecating accent on the afraid) that if we fail to nominate him, the South will not take a great deal of interest in the campaign."

But just at the moment when it looked as it there would be no solid opposition to Markham and that Morrow was practically out of the fight, some one discovered that there was a geographical division of the State known as the North, which contained the mining counties, whose representation in the Republican Convention would be.

Mono	3

According to the report of the Secretary of State these counties at the last State election cast 16,796 votes for the Republican ticket, or rather more than twice the Republican majority at the last National election in this State.

About the time that the discovery of northern California was made the Republicans of one of the mining counties had their attention called to the fact that a bill had been introduced in Congress to appropriate the gravel mines of the Sierra Nevadas, and that Markham, who was then the representative of the Sixth district had urged its passage and would have succeeded in getting it through had not old George Hearst, who has some sympathy for the miners, buried it in a Senate Committee, where it still sleeps the sleep of the dead. The object of that bill was to provide for the prosecution at the public expense of all people engaged in hydraulic or drift mining to the injury of the navigable rivers of the State. The miners have had a hard time of it for years in the United States courts, and about that time had lost their temper on account of the opposition to schemes for impounding the debris. They saw that numerous sums of money could be made if they were allowed to work the gold deposits in the gravel and it was more than human nature could stand to submit tindly to the interference in their quarrel with the people of the Sacramento valley of a member from Los Angeles, where dickens is unknown. From their standpoint, the miners were a much-abused people. If left alone they knew that they could produce, every two years, gold enough to buy every acre of land in the valley from Marysville to Rio Vista and they thought it would really be good policy for the State to do something for an industry that was pouring $30,000,000 every year into the general coffers, supporting the foundry industry of San Francisco and giving high wages to more men than the agriculturists of the north could set to work at Chinese rates.

And it grated on them to think that Los Angeles people, whom they had helped in the fight for irrigation, turned their backs upon them and went to the assistance of the enemy. So they said hard things about Congressman Markham and these things are being brought to the public memory today.

Now, it will come to pass that when the Convention meets at Sacramento the delegates thereof will be told that the 16,796 Republicans who vote in the mining counties, having a grievance against Markham, will oppose him to a man if he is nominated. To this the south will reply that two can play at that game, and if Markham is beaten the south may sulk.

In that contention the mining counties will have the best of the argument. The miners are banded together to oppose a common enemy and protect an industry in which all expect a share, and have shared in the past. Even the farmers in the mining counties have an interest in the mines, for, if the water ditches were not kept up for mining, the farmers could no longer use all the water they need for their crops free of charge, as they do now, nor find a market for their truck, as at present. The bond of union between the men in the mining counties is so close that they know only two classes—their own people and strangers, and all stand in together against the chickens spy and the outside world. No one can go into the district without notice being sent to all the mines at once to look out for a stranger who may be an enemy, and there is no case on record where one of them could be induced to testify against the miners.

So much for the union among the mining men.

On the other hand, the great mass of the Republicans of the south are Republicans first, citizens of Orangeopolis next, and Californians last of all. They are Republicans from Vermont, Ohio, Maine and all the New England States—the old Abolitionist crowd, who regard the Democracy as the sons of Belial. They never vote the Democratic ticket, and would think it sacrilege to do so; they are Republicans from faith, principle, location and self-interest, and there is no other interest down South to come between them and their political principles. They want protection for their oranges, wine, raisins and lemons, and if they cannot get a Republican governor from the South, they will take a Republican from the north in preference to a Democrat from the same section. They may prefer Markham to Morrow or Felton, but they do not prefer Pond or English or Coleman to Morrow or Chipman. So the convention will be told that it must choose between a little apathy in the south and a positive bolt in the north, based on that most powerful of human motives, self interest.

Markham stands well with his neighbors, but it is noticeable that most of the gentlemen active in making his fight are old-time politicians, who have seized upon him as an available candidate, and have determined to put their own ventures to sea in his craft, as the only one in which they can take an interest that has any hope of reaching safe harbor. Morrow remaining East, and leaving his fight to his friends, was not in a position either to trade or make promises. If the nomination is to come to him it must come freely, and not be dragged to him by a candidate for State Printer, a couple of aspirants for Harbor Commissionerships, and a Bank and Insurance Commissioner. It is plain that much of the volunteer work for Markham is based on distinct understandings that the workers are to receive the pick of the 2800 places in the gift of the Governor of the State of California. I do not mean to imply that there is anything wrong in such understandings, but they are an element of weakness, for, when it becomes known that a candidate has been making promises, he can count on the opposition of all those to whom he has not offered a share in the spoils, or who are opposed to the men supposed to be the expectant recipients of the candidate's bounty. It must be plain that if the State Printer's place has been promised to an editor from the south, the editor from the west, who would like the place, cannot make his fight in Markham's camp, but must go elsewhere or lose his chance.

The solidity of Markham's strength is due in a great measure to the attacks made upon him. His enemies left no place open for any compromise, all who were not against Markham were against them and on that line they made the issue.

An attempt is being made by some indiscreet people to injure Markham by saying that if he is nominated he will trade with Steve White to give the South the Governor and Senator also. The full meaning of this is that Markham and White are inferentially accused of being ready to sacrifice their parties for their own advancement.

I believe that such a coalition is impossible and I also believe that both White and Markham are too honorable to even think of such a bargain. Besides it is morally certain that White could not be made Senator if such a bargain leaked out. It would be a queer sort of a legislature that would send to the U. S. Senate a man who had made an indecent alliance with the other side to beat the candidate of his own party for Governor. Nor is White's success at all certain if the Democrats win a majority of the Legislature, which is itself most unlikely, even if they were to carry each of the nine districts in the South. White is strong in the South and in the San Joaquin valley; he is a great man among the "Anti's," but he has no positive strength in the North and in San Francisco, and is not the sort of man that the Democracy of California is in the habit of picking up to send to the Senate. To elect a man like White would be a revolution in political methods, and there is no indication in the signs of the times that such a revolution is contemplated. On the contrary, there is every evidence that the present political methods are winked at by a class of people who were at one time in the habit of protesting that talent and party service did not meet with adequate rewards. White may be a good or a bad man, a statesman or a humbug; I do not know, but I do know that he only represents the patriotic idea as opposed to the practice of sending men to the Senate who want the place and have the means to keep up a fine appearance in Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO.

AT WEBSTER STREET BRIDGE.

The Flag Signal and the Proposed Derailing Switches.

The Southern Pacific Company has ordered the repair of the wharf of the narrow gauge road, extending from Alameda Point, wherever necessary, and for that purpose several rafts of piles have been floated to convenient positions. The wharf has had little attention since its construction in 1882.

The signal used at the Webster street draw since the great disaster of May 30th is a large flag two feet square on a six-foot pole, instead of the little rag used before. As soon as the necessary appliances arrive Superintendent Slater of the block signal system will put automatic block signals on each side of the bridge at sufficient distance to prevent another such fatality. In case the bridge is open and the engineer disregards the automatic signal to stop, a derailing switch will throw the train off the track and run it along the ground until it stops.

A COMPLIMENT TO MR. WENDTE.

A Bust of Shakespeare From a Section of the Starr King Fraternity.

At a recent meeting of the Starr King Fraternity committee plans were adopted for its literary, musical, and social activities during the coming year, which promises to be the most brilliant in the history of the club. The full prospectus will soon be published.

Rev. C. W. Wendte was presented with a handsome bust of Shakespeare in recognition of his services as chairman of the literary section. The club will resume its sessions early in September in Upper Hamilton Hall.

Cardwell in Court Again.

W. H. Cardwell, the Confederate veteran who has figured in the police court very frequently of late, was in the dock again this morning charged with drunkenness. He was sent down for ten days this time, Justice Henshaw not intending to show any more leniency.

A MODERN ASCETIC

Who Desires the Extinction of Man.

BISHOP PERRY HOPKINS ON MARRIAGE.

Some Queer Causes of Divorce—The Husband Who Talked too Much—He cut Her Bangs.

It is a singular fact that the love of man for woman, as we are accustomed to know and possibly idealize that passion, is purely a modern growth. When I say modern, I mean that it had no existence, in fact, and was not known before the poets of the Elizabethan period discovered its dramatic uses, began the creation of an intellectual fabric upon the foundation of mere passion, a process of evolution which has gone on until the modern novelist has reduced it to absurdity. Of course, there was mating and marrying before that period, but it came as the birds mate who mate by chance. The intellectual side of the passion was unknown, as it is unknown today among the poorer classes in Europe, among all classes in Asia, and among savages everywhere. In our modern sense, it is far short of a universal passion, for it is absolutely unknown to nine-tenths of the human race. Nevertheless, the poet calmly tells us that love rules the camp, the court, the grove. That is a nice lie, but he has never been brave enough to attempt the apotheosis of love in a kitchen.

Here we have the extraordinary modern apostle of asceticism, Count Leon Tolstoi, teaching us that we must all remain celibate. Told that on his plan the human race would become extinct, he agrees, but rejoins that his teaching is not original with him. It is the teaching of Christ. True, but as the modern Christian has rejected all of Christ's precepts except one, I fail to see where the new apostle may hope to find disciples. Christ also taught us to love our enemies, and that we should not lay up treasure, but neither of those precepts is much dwelt on in the modern pulpit, and neither is practiced by anybody who goes to church. He taught that poverty was a virtue; the modern Christian regards it as a condition to be avoided by the most strenuous endeavor. "As ye would that men should do unto you do ye also to them likewise." Here is the single precept which we retain and reverence, and it comprises the whole scheme of the morality of the day, as well of those who used to be called utilitarians as of those who accept it because of a higher sanction.

Therefore I imagine that Count Tolstoi will draw no larger following than did St. Augustine, who, centuries ago, piously hoped that by universal abstention from marriage the human race might be brought to an end. We are moving in the other direction. The tendency is to make divorce easier, and the growth of what is known as the "woman's rights" idea makes in this direction more and more. In those days when men were wont to regard "the subjection of women" as normal and proper, divorce was practically forbidden. Today the strongest advocates of liberal divorce laws are to be found among the most advanced of emancipated ones. (Excuse the outrage on the pronoun). I am not now discussing the justice nor the ethics nor the expediency of the modern plan of marriage, to be continued in our next, except in so far as I may be allowed to point out the apparent triviality of some of the modern reasons which have been gravely offered in court as grounds for increasing the circulation of husbands and wives.

One would not expect to find much that is amusing in the "Report of the Commissioner of Labor on Marriages and Divorces for 1889," but somebody, who has taken the pains to wade through the document, shows that this is a great mistake, as will appear from this summary of queer causes of divorce:

A divorce is granted because her husband comes home at 10 o'clock at night, and keeps her awake talking. The grounds alleged are "mental" cruelty.

A wife secures a divorce because her husband does not wash himself, thus causing her great mental anguish.

A husband wounds his wife's feelings by accusing her sister of stealing, and the wife secures a divorce.

Another instance, is where the wife is made to climb a ladder by the husband, to drive nails in the woodshed. Not liking the way she drove the nails, he lassoed her in coming down the ladder, tied her feet to a gate post, then stuck sticks and straws in her ears, gouged his knuckles in her eyes and said he "wanted to see if she was Dutch." On untying her, he threw or shoved her into a nest of bees, "full of which sorely grieved the plaintiff in body and mind."

A divorce is granted the wife of a ranchman, because he cruelly treats her. When he returns from a hunt he cries, "Down! charge!" and points his whip, whereupon, if the wife does not drop upon her knees, and imitate the pointing of a dog, the defendant cruelly beats and maltreats her.

Another woman secured a divorce on her statement that "My husband cut off my bangs by force." Her case was hardly as distressing as some which follows, in which the plaintiff's testimony is given to the effect: "My husband would never cut his toenails and I wasscratched very severely every night, especially as he was very restless."

A husband pinched his wife's nose until it became red, thereby causing her mortification and anguish." She had no trouble getting a divorce.

It is an unexpected fact disclosed by this report that during one year in the United States 6122 divorces were granted to husbands on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment by their wives. We are accustomed to hear of the behavior of the male brute, but do not very often encounter the female of his species. She exists, nevertheless, in quantity, as the figures show, but it must be admitted that in some of the instances the masculine idea of what might be called cruelty was somewhat strained, as, for instance, the case of a husband who asked to be divorced because his wife upbraided him, saying, "You are no man at all." So great was his mental anguish over this cruel remark that the court freely granted him his divorce.

Another husband says: "My wife refused to keep my clothing in repair and never sewed on my buttons." He had a witness to prove that the husband had been seen going around with but one button on his vest. Another grievance which he had was that his wife would not let him go to fires at night.

A husband was granted a divorce because his wife pulled him out of bed by his whiskers.

Lastly a husband pleaded that his wife had struck him a violent blow with her bustle, doubtless a cruel and unusual weapon.

Shall we conclude, then, with Tolstoi and and Bishop Perry Hopkins, of the African Union Methodist Church of New York, that "Marriage is a failure?" Possibly you never heard what the Bishop had to say on this important question, and if you think it will assist you to a conclusion, here it is:

"I am mo' than glad," said Bishop Hopkins, "of de priv'lege of standin' befo' you. I'm goin' to indiver to base my remarks on der Bible in partickler, and also upon de dockiments I have here in my hand. De dockiments I has in my hands reads cl'arly, 'Is marriage a failure?' We will partickl'erly look at de failure and de marriage, and also at de failure accordin' to de dockiments we have in hand.

"Our dockiments bein' right I want to show you dat marriage was a failure and is. But while dat is de truf, and nuffin' but de truf, we'll look at de other side, and de other side is this: Marriage and marryin' is two different things. (Loud chuckles from the girls.) My startin' pint 'bout marriage is to bring yo' to der Bible, where it reads in St. John:—'There was a marriage in Cane of Galilee.' I wish to show der learned judges dat dat marriage in Cane of Galilee was a marriage and not marryin'.

"De wine was all out and de guv'nor of de feast was done broke up. Dere was no mo' wine. Den dat marriage failed right dere, didn't it?"

This was given in the course of a grand debate, and one of the brethren forcibly remarked that very often the woman goes off with the other fellow, and if that don't prove that marriage is a failure, "then watermillions is a failure."

But for my part, I think that the man who contracts $5 worth of parson is very like to have to pay a lawyer $50 for curing the same.

EDWARD F. CAHILL.

ELECTRIC LIGHTING.

The Edison Company Cannot Obtain Any Monopoly.

The Westinghouse System of Arc and Incandescent Lighting in Use for Years and Amply Protected.

To the Editor of the Tribune—SIR: The prospectus of the Edison Electric Company of your city has been issued for the purpose of soliciting capital for their new venture.

In this circular they say the patents of Thomas A. Edison are recognized as the foundation patents in incandescent lighting. As a representative of the Westinghouse Electric Company, I desire to say it is not a recognized fact that the Edison patents are the foundation patents in incandescent lighting. Other and equally as good systems were invented andcovered by patents about the same time and prior to those of Mr. Edison, both in this country and in Europe.

Since Mr. Edison perfected his system of incandescent lighting there has been invented a method of electrical distribution for long-distance incandescent lighting which is greatly superior to the direct or Edison type of current.

It is nearly four years since the Westinghouse Electric Company first introduced the alternating current incandescent lighting in America, and during that time the advancement the system has made attests to its superiority, and the favor with which it is looked upon for perfection in incandescent light, safety and satisfactory returns for money invested.

The prospectus of the Edison Company of Oakland says the Edison incandescent light has been adopted in upward of seventy cities. To accomplish this has taken ten years; while the Westinghouse Electric Company's alternating system, in less than four years, has been adopted in upward of 300 cities and towns for central station lighting, distributing more than 600,000 sixteen-candle power lamps.

The assertion made in the prospectus of the Edison Company of Oakland, that it is only a question of a very short time until the incandescent lighting business will be confined entirely to the Edison Company and its licensees, is disproved by the fact that in England, as well as in this country, the direct or Edison type of current is being supplanted by the alternating current, until now the extension of the alternating current for central station business exceeds the direct current at least five times.

There is not the slightest possibility of the Edison Company of Oakland obtaining an "absolute monopoly" of electric lighting in Oakland (as they claim they can do in their prospectus), for Mr. Edison or his company have no patents in any way interfering with the Westinghouse system of electrical distribution of incandescent lights which is in use in the city of Oakland, and which is covered by some seven hundred patents.

The Edison people do not control, nor does any other company, an arc light with which the Westinghouse New Alternating Single Carbon 40-hour arc lamp in the least conflicts. It is the latest and only form of long-burning arc light from an alternating current, and is amply protected by broad patents, with which no interference will be allowed. Very respectfully,

W. C. CLARK.

General District Agent, 328 Montgomery street.

THE NOBLES OF THE SHRINE.

Arrangements For Next Friday's Entertainment.

The Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, met in Oakland last night to arrange for the reception of the pilgrims here on Friday next, completed a number of the preparations. The visitors are to arrive at the Fourteenth street depot, on the 11.15 train from San Francisco, and will find carriages awaiting them there. A drive to all the places of interest is then on the programme, after which a collation will be served, probably at Mr. Requa's mansion as stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE.

The McClure Case.

Joseph McClure, the wild-looking man who was arrested for an assault with a deadly weapon, wanted to explain to the court this morning, but the evidence was not ready and his examination was set for August 5th.

The disturbance took place in Ferguson's saloon on Sixth and Broadway and not in Peter's place as has been stated.

Going to Portland.

Chief of Police Tompkins expects to leave for a trip to Portland, Or., either this evening or tomorrow.

THAT TIRED FEELING

This Is Not a Patent Medicine Advertisement,

BUT SIMPLY A REMEDY FOR THE BLUES.

Go Up Into the Adirondacks and Enjoy the Scenery and the Sport—The Wild Lacy of the West.

Have you "that tired feeling"—that life isn't worth living?

Has the price of ice gone up beyond your reach?

Have you failed to pick a winner at the Derby and have you a desire to see some queer people of the East—the effete East? Then take the Adirondack train at Saratoga and bie yourself—fishing rod, bathing suit, a nd ills—to Lake Luzerne.

You need not hold to the car seat with both hands coming up. You will be shaken up pretty thoroughly, but the train hasn't jumped the track yet, and there are only thirty miles to run.

In a n hour you are standing before the register at the Wayside Inn, ending your name with "California," and the usual flourish. Perhaps the air may turn a little chilly after you have set forth in bold letters that you are just out of the rawdy West, even though an examination of your person fails to reveal either sombrero, bowie knife, pistols, or boots. But it is your misfortune, so make the best of it. You are in the "effete East," and it's different, you know.

A wide range of travel will fail to show anything to excel this spot for quiet, restful beauty. The lake, scarcely three miles in circumference, lies down deep between graceful hills covered with pine, spruce and fir. The dry air, for which this spot is famous, filters through the forests and floats down across the lake in zephyrs laden with fragrance, and to breathe such air means a renewal of life. Lake Luzerne is the owner of a chain of four small lakes, connected by a picturesque creek. Upon the lakes are lily boats and canoes, the names of which are suggestive of Fenimore Cooper's stirring tales. Paddling silently, Indian fashion, around the lakes and through the creeks, one can almost fancy himself living in the time of Leatherstocking.

It is charmingly quiet. Warm days, cool nights, and perfect rest, work wonders. Before you came here you nibbled, reluctantly at a rare-bit. Now it fairly does your heart good to observe the abandon with which you attack things at table d'hote, and it taxes your mathematics to keep count of the "slabs" of rare, juicy roast beef which disappear in a vain endeavor to fill an aching void, which is ever with'n you.

The hotel is on rising ground, near the lake. It commands a good view, and also the respect of all lovers of good living. Connected with it are a number of cottages; they are engaged several years ahead.

At noon each day, a silver horn echoes and reechoes across the water. It is the gentlemen's bathing call; and ere long there is a procession of canoes making for one point; a bay with a raft and a diving-board and twenty feet of cool, clear water. What more could one want, except perhaps, coffee and a roll and the morning papers served on the raft after a plunge. Twelve miles to the east is Lake George, an excellent drive; and the same may be said of the drive down the Hudson River, six miles to Palmer's Falls, where Warner Miller's Wood-pulp Mills are located. They are called the largest and most complete in this country. As a colored boy put it the other day—"Dem trees dey jes' go in dere one side chinery chaw an' chaw an' hea's yo' paper heah."

Philosophers have not yet discovered why those places where nature gets up early in the morning and puts in her best work are the ones most frequented by people who are the least capable of enjoying them. Take Lake Luzerne, for instance. You expect to find here an exceptional company—and so you do—exceptional, indeed, to the Western mind, broadened by its surroundings and habits of travel. Every year Albany, Troy, Cohoes, and other classic cities of New York send delegations of "society" people to Luzerne. Some years ago the cities of the East were supposed to contain the best samples of intellect and refinement. An aggregation of people from those places now sets one to wondering whether the East is deteriorating—or the West leaving it behind in the race of civilization.

In years past it has been the custom for us poor barbarians "out West" to look to the East for lessons in all that was refined and recherche, and some of us are looking that way yet—but perhaps we do not always find what we are looking for. As intimated before, here you will find an aggregation of "dead elegance" which would extract deference and admiration from something even tougher than a wild westerner. The Mrs. Somebody-from-Cohoes, or thereabouts—her husband, children, nurses, footman, dogs, horses and carriages, come here every summer, and here she is Somebody, indeed, with the "S" somewhat enlarged. She drives over the lonely roads to the amazement of the rustic lout who plods through the dust afoot. And why shouldn't he be awed by the sight of livery, rattling chains and gold-plated harness. Shades of Izaak Walton! Think of liveried footmen and Fifth avenue turnout in the primeval forests of the Adirondacks! And so, the Mrs. Somebody and others, hold forth in quiet Luzerne. All of the same class to the unused "rank outsiders," yet afraid to mingle together, each not quite sure of her own social position. And there you are—a first-class imitation of a funeral.

There are exceptions to the rule, of course, and among them are the Pierrepont and old New York family, whose pedigree can be traced back so many years that it makes one dizzy to figure it out.

Opposite the hotel grounds is a handsome cottage owned by Mrs. Pierce, mother of the present Duchess of Marlborough. You wonder when looking at the dignified white-haired lady, whose whole appearance betokens graciousness and generosity, how the daughter could have shown such doubtful taste.

One of the hotel cottages is occupied by John K. Bangs, of Harper's Monthly. He is here with his family, and usually brings up some of his friends from New York Saturday. At present he is a "looker on in Venice" with A. B. Storey, the editor of Harper's Young People. It is refreshing to see here, once in a while, common, ordinary, everyday mortals like these, such as one has been in the habit of seeing elsewhere.

If there is one thing the Eastener prides himself on it is something he calls "reserve"—"Eastern reserve." If he steps on your toes; talks loud; pokes an umbrella in your eye, or stares you out of countenance, and says never a word of apology, you are expected to make no complaints, as it is only "Eastern reserve," don't you see? don't you know? In others actions of the world, that something called "Eastern reserve" convicts one at sight of boorishness, ignorance, and stupidity in the first degree.

A few days ago there dropped into Luzerne one of Chicago's bright writers, whose "chatty" articles are read and copied from ocean to ocean. In an unostentatious way, surprising to one who reads the popular stories about Chicago and her people, she made her appearance at Luzerne. The "Eastern reserve" got up on its hind legs and snorted. It was appalled at the presence within these sacred precincts of a stranger from Chicago, and didn't hesitate to show it. The poor unfortunate from the wild West was independent, and by her manner showed a lack of appreciation of the Eastern peculiarity. She went quietly about her business—the securing of quiet and rest.

To her disgust, a few days later her identity became known, and then where was your Eastern reserve? It wasn't anywhere. It first climbed over the wall and "humped itself," so to speak, which means it let its curiosity and wonder get the best of it. Then began a series of exhibitions by some of the Mrs. Somebodies—with a large "S" here please—for the edification of the lady writer from the uncultured wooly west. It was the unconscious tribute of ignorance, narrowness and vanity to pluck and brains, and must have afforded the object of it some quiet amusement.

Last night, while many of the guests were quietly eating supper, a confusion of noises was heard in the distance. Louder and louder it grew, until the air was so surcharged with sounds as to make the enjoyment of supper an impossibility. When expectation was at a fever heat the cause of all the inharmonious sounds burst upon our view—No, we had not suddenly been taken back to the time of Leatherstocking—it was only a small dinner party of ten, and they seated themselves at the table next to the Little woman who secures homage with her pen, backed up by a keen appreciation of the ridiculous.

It was only one of the different cliques which are ever with us at the summer hotels, and that their display was intended to show some of the other rival clans that they "are not in it" was evident by the troubled looks of the latter. There were "panthers" of fine dresses and jewels which shone under the dim coal oil lamps of the dining room like San Francisco street lamps in a fog. The laughing and talking at each other was done in such low well bred tones as to render communication with your waiter impossible, except by way of an ear trumpet. And wine flowed too—out of glasses filled with cracked ice, an evidence of practiced good living which was unmistakable. I wondered how long it would take to educate one's palate to that point where it could stand such a mixture as champagne diluted generously with cracked ice. Wondered, too, at the desire for display which could make people "dress for supper" by the aid of light from a tallow candle and musty lamp in the wilds of the Adirondacks.

If the wild lady from the west at the next table thought that some part of the display was for her benefit, or the readers of her paper, she could be pardoned for doing so. Such a craning and twisting of jewel encircled necks as there was. "Eastern reserve" must have come to a realizing sense of the impropriety of having its back to anyone—anyone who could wield a pen, and as the particular shining lights among the ladies faced the wrong way there was but one thing that could happen: and it occurred to such an alarming extent that one became fearful of dislocated necks. One young Miss in particular, with about eighteen summers to her credit, evidently had not heard of a lady before who could rise above the confines of "society" and hold its weak points up to ridicule. Her seat was all wrong, it being necessary to make a complete half turn of the body to gratify filial curiosity—beg pardon, "Eastern reserve," if the dilligences were great, her perseverance was greater and she overcame all obstacles by some surprising gymnastics. I began to think the dear girl was mounted on a pivot. The frantic twistings and turnings were in vain, and the world will never know—by way of Chicago at least—of the raidiant beauties who dined at Luzerne.

In addition to the attractions enumerated, Luzerne boasts of a half mile sandy race course, fair grounds, and a brass band. I won't say much about the band now as it is not a safe thing to do while one is here. At least once a week in the evening it breaks loose and a succession of doleful sounds fracture the air and—well, words fail me—and with the accompaniment of howling dogs it is many times more so.

Speaking of dogs, besides many plebeian dogs of the village there are nineteen of the Eastern-reserved-aristocratic-triple-lung-expansion kind, belonging to guests of the hotel, each one with a large silk bow tied under his left ear. Every woman seems to carry a whistle and whip. A few days ago there was a scene of wild excitement. It was just after dinner and the piazza was crowded with women, old and young. Nineteen hyphenated dogs as above on the lawn. Enter daringly with a chin on his shoulder a common ordinary village doggy-dog. Zipp! Whiz! Bang!! a little bowed terrier who barks in French under the auspices of Mlle. the French governess, has the "plebe" by the throat and is making the bones rattle. Eighteen high toned dogs to the rescue from all points of the compass, accompanied by female shrieks, tears and entreaties and "the scene beggars description."

"Thus runs the world away," and so you would have thought had you witnessed the running done that day.

Luzerne has a straw-hat and overcoat climate; that is the way you average up your dress, and the weather clerk cannot take you by surprise. In good old California style, the thermometer drops at night until you shiver without an overcoat. During the day it keeps along in the eighties. Luzerne is a capital place to renew youth. Here are are scenes pleasing to the eye, fresh air to breathe, and some curious people to study, if you can appreciate the ridiculous side of life. If you wish for more you are hard to please, and should remain at home. EUGENE J. CANTIN.

FABLES OF ÆSOP.

A Garbled and Perverted Edition.

SOME OLD SAWS WITH NEW HANDLES.

The Song of the Dying Swan—The God-like Fisherman—Various Asses—The Satisfied Wolf.

BY AMBROSE BIERCE.

A certain rich man reared a Goose and a Swan, the one for his table, the other because she was reputed a good singer. One night when the Cook went to kill the Goose he got hold of the Swan instead. There upon the Swan, to induce him to spare her life, began to sing; but she only saved him the trouble of killing her, for she died of the song.

A Farmer who had a deadly and implacable hatred against a certain Fox caught him and tied some tow to his tail; then carrying him to the center of his own grain field, set the tow on fire and let the animal go.

"Alas," said the Farmer, seeing the result, "if that grain had not been heavily insured, I might have had to dissemble my hatred of the Fox."

A fisherman who had caught a very small fish was putting it in his basket when it said: "I pray you put me back into the stream, for I can be of no use to you, the Gods do not eat fish."

"But I am no god," said the fisherman.

"True," said the fish, "but as soon as Jupiter has heard of your exploit he will promote you. You are the only man who ever caught a small fish."

An eagle mortally wounded by an archer was greatly comforted to observe that the arrow was feathered with one of his own quills. "I should have felt bad, indeed," he said, "to think that any other eagle had had a hand in this."

A Sheep seeing a wounded wolf lying in his lair, said to him: "If I fetch you some water from the brook you will, I suppose, agree not to eat me?"

"With pleasure," replied the Wolf; "but it is only fair to notify you that a wolf's word is a sandy foundation to build upon."

"Sir," said the sheep, "your frankness inspires me with added confidence in you; but unfortunately I have nothing to bring the water in."

A Lion and a Boar, who were fighting for water at a pool, saw some vultures hovering significantly above them. "Let us make up our quarrel," said the Boar, "or these fellows will get one of us, sure."

"I should not so much mind that," replied the Lion, "if they would get the right one. However, I am willing to stop fighting, and then maybe I can grab a vulture. I like chicken better than pork, anyhow."

A Lion was about to attack an ass, when a cock near by crowed shrilly, and the lion ran away. "What frightened him?" the ass asked.

"Lions have a superstitious terror of my voice," answered the cock, proudly.

"Well, well, well," said the ass, shaking his head; "I should think that any animal who is afraid of your voice and doesn't mind mine must have an uncommon kind of ear."

A fisherman engaged in his calling, made a very large catch, and was delighted; but when he reflected that nobody would believe him, he was less hilarious.

A fox, seeing some sour grapes hanging within an inch of his nose, and being unwilling to admit that there was anything he would not eat, solemnly declared that they were out of his reach.

A Wolf passing a Shepherds' hut looked in and saw them dining.

"Come in," said one of them, ironically, and partake of your favorite dish, a haunch of mutton."

"Thank you," said the Wolf, moving away, "but you must excuse me; I have just had a haunch of shepherd."

A weary Traveler who had lain down and fallen asleep on the brink of a deep well was discovered by Dame Fortune.

"If this fool," she said, "should have an uneasy dream and roll into the well men would say that I did it. It is painful to me to be unjustly accused, and I shall see that I am not." So saying she rolled the man into the well.

"See these valuable golden eggs," said a Man who owned a Goose. "Surely a Goose which can lay such eggs as those must have a gold mine inside of her."

So he killed the Goose and cut her open, but found that she was just like any other Goose. Moreover, on cutting open her eggs he found they were just like any other eggs.

An Ass who had long shocked the ears of all other animals with his bray put on a lion's skin. Thenceforward they called his note a roar, and encored him whenever he lifted up his voice.

The Peacock complained to Juno that he was unable to sing.

"True," said Juno, "but see how gorgeous your plumage is!"

"That is all very well," replied the fowl, "but I should prefer to be more soberly fledged and have a softer voice."

"My child," said Juno, "be content. To each is allotted some gift fitting him for his station in life. You are intended for the opera bouffe."

IT WAS A BARGAIN.

How W. W. Foote Nearly Sold Out His Blythe Case Fee.

There is every prospect of an appeal being taken in the great Blythe case litigation. The attorneys for Florence say they will not offer to compromise, and the attorneys for the Williams claimants and some others say they will not accept such offers if they are made. Some of the opposing attorneys are crying that Judge Coffey's decision is on the same basis as his decision in the Jessup case, which was overruled by the Supreme Court, and that the evidences of adoption are not half as strong in the case of Florence Blythe as they were in the case of young Jessup.

Attorney W. W. Foote of this city will receive a fee of $150,000 under a contract with James Crisp Perry, Florence's guardian, no matter what fee Judge Coffey awards them. In this connection a story is going the rounds. Soon after Foote went into the case he felt himself a little pinched for money and when Senator Hearst offered him $10,000 for a half interest in his fee he accepted the offer. Subsequently Hearst told Irwin C. Stump, his man of affairs, about the speculation, and Stump, who was backing another claimant, advised him not to put out the money. Foote, hearing that the old Senator was a little reluctant, said that he wouldn't force the matter on a friend and by his generosity saved just $65,000.

W. H. H. Hart, the gossips say, will receive $40,000. He deserves it all. He has kept James Crisp Perry and wife, Mrs. Julia Asheroft, and the girl Florence for the past seven years; has paid all the expenses of litigation; sold his homestead to do it; borrowed all the money he could rake and scrape, and staked his all upon the touch. A few weeks ago he tried to borrow $2000, and had hard work to get it. Even Nick Luning would let him have it now on personal security.

A REMARKABLE MAN.

F. M. English, Priest, Scholar, Musician, and Raconteur.

Frances M. English, whose recent divorce from Grace Varney English, has caused so much talk in Oakland society circles (this talk being augmented by the speedy marriage of the divorced wife), sailed for Japan on the last steamer. All sorts of rumors are afloat as to why he refused to contest the divorce, but none of them have obtained substantiation.

English was, in many respects, a remarkable man. The younger son of an English barrister, he received a splendid education, and was at one time possessed of large wealth. When this disappeared, he took holy orders, and came to this country as a Catholic priest. Subsequently, he left the priesthood, and meeting Miss Varney while she was traveling for her health, won her heart, and married her out of hand, against the wishes of her adoptive parents.

As a musician he took high rank, and was, for a time, basso in the choir of the First Presbyterian Church in this city. Further than this, he was an organist of distinction, and would have had the position of organist in the First Unitarian church, had it not been that Mr. Wendte objected to his constitutional and continuous levity has absolute inability to see anything in a serious light. He was a fine classical scholar, and as a raconteur had few equals. His monologue entertainment, after the manner of the inimitable Corney Grain, was a delight to all who heard it.

Singularly enough he made enemies here who will not hear to it that he did not marry entirely for money and that he was not bought off in the divorce suit. On the other hand his friends, and they are not a few, insist that he was a kindly affectionate, high-minded man, who was the victim of the caprices of a strangely constituted woman.

A GOOD REVENUE.

Last Month's Police Court Fines—The Anti-Chinese Crusade.

The fines and forfeitures of the Police Court for the past month amounted to $2288 25.

When Auditor Snow, at the commencement of the past fiscal year, made his estimate of revenue from the Police Department he figured it out at $10,000, but during the last four months alone over $9000 have poured into the City Treasury from this source. Such a harvest is not likely to occur again though, for the business is as unusual as unexpected, and results from the crusade against the lottery dealers, about $5000 having so far come from the coffers of the Mongolians.

A Raft of Logs.

The Noyo Lumber Company of San Francisco, which recently successfully made the experiment of towing rafts of piles from the vicinity of Fort Bragg to Oakland creek, has another flotilla of piles on the way. A boom encircling the logs. The towing of logs on the Atlantic coast has usually been in the form of cigar-shaped rafts in which they were lashed together. The Noyo company may decide to build a sawmill for making lumber and may select a place upon the line of Oakland creek as a site for such a mill.

A Golden Card of Invitation.

A. Andrews has presented the Native Sons with a beautiful card of solid gold, on which is engraved the invitation to President Harrison to attend the celebration of Admission Day in San Francisco. The card is five inches long and three and one-half inches in width, and it bears the emblems of the Pioneers and the Native Sons. The plate bears the names of the Committees of Arrangements of the Pioneers and Native Sons, as well as the names of the Invitation Committee of the latter organization.

The Races To-day.

At the races at the Oakland trotting park this afternoon a number of valuable prizes are being competed for, among them being four sets of rubber and gold mounted track harness, four fine horse blankets, and four solid whalebone whips. The post bell rang promptly at two o'clock.

Afraid to Stand Trial.

Miss Ah Gun evidently thought that she did not have much of a defense, for she forfeited her bail of $30 when her name was called this morning. As she forfeited $20 on Monday last for the same offense, she has had a bad week of it.

Did Not Know of It.

A. C. Barnard's case of misdemeanor was dismissed this morning, on payment of $5 costs, it being declared that he was not aware that his Chinese tenants were using his premises for lottery purposes.

Not Tom Hearn.

ON THE BALL FIELD.

Stories About Managers, Players, Errors and Contracts.

The Colonels went to Sacramento yesterday, and succeeded in capturing a game from the Senators. For seven innings the Senators failed to make a run, while the Colonels had piled up six runs to their credit. In the eighth inning the Sacramentos made one run, and in the ninth inning they scored four more runs, and came within an ace of beating out the Oaklands. Each team played a good fielding game. The battery for Oakland was Cobb and Lohman against Hoffman and Bowman. The score was 6 to 5 in favor of the Colonels.

The San Franciscos and the Stocktons played a championship game at the Oakland grounds yesterday afternoon. The San Francisco boys played worse than amateurs, and piled up fifteen errors. They were not in the contest from the beginning to the end. The boys from Stockton played a steady game, and won easily by a score of 14 to 8.

Manager Robinson has received word from Charley Dooley. The latter says that he has started for Oakland, and will arrive here either tonight or tomorrow morning. The Colonel expects to play him in the game at San Francisco in the afternoon. Dooley wanted Robinson to change his ticket so that he could come here by a different route, but the Colonel got mad and wired him to come along immediately or be blacklisted, so Dooley is en route for Oakland.

McCarthy, the new twirler for the San Franciscos, will make his first appearance against the Colonels at the Haight street park tomorrow afternoon.

The Oaklands and the San Franciscos will play two games tomorrow. In the morning the teams will play at the Oakland grounds, and in the afternoon they play at San Francisco.

The Directors of the California League will hold a meeting this evening, when a decision will be arrived at in the case of Twirler Coughlin. Roscoe still remains with Sacramento, and his manager will make a fight to retain him.

The deal, whereby the Sacramento management was going to sell Godar, Roberts and Reitz to Manager Finn, is off. The Sacramento manager has decided to keep the men, as he has been promised financial assistance from the Sacramento merchants. The highest amount taken away from San Francisco by the Sacramento Club at any one time this season was $223.

Colonel Robinson has given up the idea of going East to secure new players. He has come to the conclusion that he can do all his business through Danny Long.

Captain Tip O'Neill has been ill during the past few days, and has been unable to play ball. He is getting better, however, and may be on deck in the games tomorrow.

The Colonel has signed L. C. Stockwell, formerly a member of the San Francisco Club, to play a few games with the Oaklands.

Charley Sweeney will play shortstop for the Colonels until Tip O'Neill is able to appear on the diamond again.

A lot of kids came up from Temescal to play a match game with the Antioch nine last Sunday. They were so beardless and so innocent looking that the Antiochs were ashamed to go on the diamond with them and beat them. But they went. And they continued to be ashamed. In fact, the kids wiped the ground up with the Antiochs. The harmless little kids made the Antiochs crawl in their hole, and confess that they couldn't play ball a little bit. Score: Emeralds, 23; Antiochs, 7.—Antioch Ledger.

Robinson's Circus

Will make a two days' stand in Oakland about the middle of September, and will have with them their celebrated elephant Godiness, so named on account of his cleanly habits, he eating very crabbed until his hide is champooed and combed after which he is quite docile. In this respect he resembles a great many of the Oakland ladies who do not become good natured until their hair has been trimmed, shampooed and dressed, which is accomplished in an artistic manner by Mrs. L. S. Silberberg of the Eastern hair store, 405 Twelfth street, between Broadway and Franklin, where their good nature will be restored.

JACK THE RIPPER.

Another Supposed Murderer Bordering Upon the Savage Edge of White Chapel.

A heavy trunk was to have been moved from 203 Eighth street yesterday, and when the Express Company called for it they noticed a terribly obnoxious smell. Their curiosity was at once aroused, and the driver suggested opening the trunk. "Youst you look a leetle oudt," was heard from the owner, "Dot vas mine Limberger cheese dot youse smell, undt I vant mind drunk checked to Germany." "We check baggage to all parts of the United States," replied the driver of the Whitney Standard & Oakland Transfer Company. Their office is 422 Ninth street

Happy Hoosiers.

William Timmons, Postmaster of Idaville, Ind., writes: "Electric Bitters has done more for me than all others combined, for that bad feeling arising from Kidney and Liver trouble." John Leslie, farmer and stockman of same place, says, "Find Electric Bitters to be the best Kidney and Liver Medicine, made me feel like a new man." J. W. Gardner, hardware merchant, same town, says: "Electric Bitters is just the thing for a man, who is all run down and don't care whether he lives or dies; he found new strength, good appetite, and felt just like he had a new lease on life. Only 50 cents a bottle at Osgood Bros'. Drug Store.

THE DERELICT ONES.

Estates in Which No Accounts Have Been Filed.

THE ATTORNEYS IN CHARGE OF THE CASES

Executors, Administrators, and Guardians Who Will Be Required to Present Reports of Their Trusts.

The list of guardians and administrators who have failed to comply with the law that requires accounts and inventories to be filed, still continues to grow longer. The estates named today constitute the list from the year 1885 to 1888. It will be seen that among the names of the derelict attorneys appears the name of Judge Hornblower of San Francisco. Cleve Dam as an administrator, is also caught in the list, while Judge Ogden is found to appear as an attorney in a few estates which have not been closed up. Police Court Clerk Billy O'Brien is also in the swim, and so is nearly almost every other attorney in town. Deputy Clerk Furry took all the estates in which the law has not been fulfilled down to 1885, as they were all in Department One of the Superior Court. Since 1885 he is only taking the estates which are in Judge Greene's Department.

A HANDSOME complexion is one of the greatest charms a woman can possess. Pozzoi's Complexion Powder gives it.

Rev. H. L. Chapman, pastor of the M. E. Church, Johnstown, Pa., says: "Soon after the great flood, at a time when diarrhoea was quite prevalent, I received a box of six dozen Chamberlain's Colic Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. As soon as it became known that I had the medicine for free distribution, there began a great run on it, which continued until it was about all gone. Every one, so far as I heard from them, testified to its virtues, declaring it the best medicine for the purpose they had ever used. Those who got it shared it around with their neighbors, so that I am confident it was productive of great good. We used some of it ourselves and found it not only an excellent medicine for diarrhoea, but for all kinds of pain and uneasiness in the stomach and bowels. It has been regarded as the best medicine known here for the diseases it is recommended. For sale by Kirkland & Trowbridge.

NEW YORK, FEB. 10, 1886.

MESS. FLEMING BROTHERS, Pittsburgh Pa.

GENTLEMEN—since leaving the army at the close of the civil war rebellion, I have been subject to malarial or bilious attacks which contracted in the swamps and bayous of Louisiana while in the service of the U. S. Government. I have used many other cathartic pill and experienced but temporary relief until I commenced using your DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS. I am now as sound as a drum and as clear as a fife, or to use the common vernacular, "as fine as a fiddle." I find them invaluable during the summer encampment of the State National Guards, as they counteract the effects of, and prepare the system for a change of water and diet.

Beneficially yours,
DRUM MAJOR H. B. GOODRICH.

Results after using one box of DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS, absence of headache, no backache or pain in the side, excellent appetite, in fact perfect health. H. B. G.

AVOID COUNTERFEITS! Send us 25c and we will send you by return mail a box of the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S CELEBRATED LIVER PILLS and eight handsome cards.

For years I have suffered with painful menstruations, but did not believe in doctoring. I heard of ELECTROZONE, a simple and pleasant thing to take, and I thought I would try it; after using 3 bottles I have had my menstrual cycle as nature intended women should have them, and think all women who suffer as I have should try it, as I am sure they will find relief. What Blaine Proposes.

It is not very easy, as yet, to estimate the effect which Blaine's two letters to Senator Frye will have on national politics, but that the effect will be material is already certain. The policy of reciprocity is already in operation between this country and the Hawaiian islands, and although it has been mutually profitable to the manufacturers and producers of the Pacific coast and of the islands, yet it has met with objection, because the consumers of sugar have not participated in the benefits, owing to the fact that the price is regulated by the duty paid on the bulk of the sugar used in the United States and imported from Cuba and Porto Rico. The McKinley bill proposes to remove this duty, and so far the consumer would have the benefit, if Spain does not put on an equal duty on the exports from Cuba, as did Brazil when we took off the duty on coffee. When we took that step, neither consumer nor producer was benefitted. The only difference is that Brazil now collects the money, which formerly went into the United States Treasury. Mr. Blaine proposes that, if we take off the duty from sugar, we shall negotiate a treaty with Spain admitting our flour and other manufactures to Cuba on favorable terms, and thus, while we give the consumer the benefit of cheap sugar, we shall be giving encouragement, and consequently protection, to our farmers and manufacturers. Of course any treaty of this sort would include a provision that Spain should not impose on exported sugar the duties we have taken off. A similar treaty would, no doubt, be negotiated with Brazil, and there is no doubt that it would equalize the balance of trade with that country, which is now so strongly against us. We buy, every year, $60,000,000 worth of coffee and other goods from Brazil, and that country only takes $8,000,000 of our products. Antonio Guimaraes, a Brazilian merchant, [illegible] in New York, says such a treaty would be advantageous to both countries, for the reason that it would greatly stimulate the sugar output there, and such tariff concessions would be made that it would be for Brazil's interest to take from us the $21,000,000 worth of cotton goods which it now buys from England. In the course of his interview Mr. Guimaraes said:

Mr. Blaine is one of the few statesmen in this country who has studied the advantages of trade based on reciprocity, and it is to be regretted that the question has been discussed in a purely business basis, as it should be looked at from the standpoint of politics. As a stranger to American politics it does not seem to me that the Secretary of State could properly have allowed legislation to have passed without explaining the position clearly before the country, and whatever is done, through the statement of that position by Mr. Blaine will stand as an evidence of his superior knowledge of the commercial conditions, not only of the United States, but of those existing in the States of the Americas.

It will be observed in this regard that Mr. Blaine does not propose to interfere with the established policy of protection of our own producers, or to take the duties off anything produced here in quantity, but he says that if it is determined to remove the duties from goods like coffee and sugar, which we do not produce in any considerable quantities, then we should use such remissions of duty for trading purposes as a business proposition, and, by so doing, give encouragement (which is the object of protection) to our own producers. The proposition is so obviously in the line of business sense that it has already taken a strong hold.

Does the younger generation devour the life and adventures of Robinson Crusoe with the same avidity that characterized their fathers and mothers in the days when they were young? Possibly its honored place has been taken by some of the horde of "juveniles" crowd the book shelves now, [illegible] know his Man Friday no more. W[illegible] not know; but that the interest has not all died out among the oldsters is shown by the fact that, in 1877, Alfred de Rodt, a Swiss of noble family, leased the island of Robinson from the Chilean Government for a considerable sum, and he has been living there ever since. He has lost money by the speculation, but the romance of the situation still holds him there. His lease expired in 1885, but the fascination of the place holds him spell-bound, and he means to stay there till he dies.

On September 1st this provision of law will go in effect in New York State:

No child actually, or apparently, under 16 years of age shall smoke or in any way use a cigar or tobacco in any form whatsoever in any public street, place, or resort.

This is deliciously vague. It constitutes every policeman a court of justice to determine from the evidence of his own senses the apparent age of a smoker. It is one of the curiosities of jurisprudence.

THE Santa Cruz Sentinel is sedulously endeavoring to ascertain the leanings of the county Republican delegation for Governor, but so far without very encouraging results, the only light on the subject it has discovered being that one delegate has told it that "he does not mean to be left." This is a very statesmanlike attitude.

ANOTHER PRETTY GIRL IS ENGAGED

Why Some Should Laugh and Some Weep—The Woes of the Benedicks Who Play Till All Hours.

If I should continue my discourse of last Saturday on "smiles" I wonder how I could escape classifying the English smile and the Knight smile. I'm afraid the English smile is all on the wrong side of the mouth, however, but the facility with which Mrs. English jumped out of the one matrimonial venture and into another has caused a broad grin to spread itself over the face of the community. I'm afraid Mr. English considered the matter quite as dispiriting as a Punch joke. But what must Chicago think of us? We are giving that windy city of the lakes cards and spades in the matter of smoothness and brevity when it comes to divorces. Really, though, it half the gossip is true, the case should have come to trial and given us girls something to talk about in deliciously wicked moments when the lights are low and no men are around.

Who'd 'a thought it of meek-faced Grace Varney, anyhow. Now if it had been pretty Mrs. Cecil it wouldn't have been half so strange. So much for the English smile and the pot of gold at the end of the matrimonial rainbow. But the Knight smile and pot of gold are different altogether different. This time the smiles occur upon the right side of the mouth. Rob is indeed a lucky fellow, and I really think that Miss Chabot is a lucky girl. She has a good looking husband with mamma's approval, a bright companion for life and every prospect for a long and joyous career upon this earth—so far to those blessed with its earthly gifts; so-bare and brown to those who have their bread to earn, or their husbands to catch. Rob ought indeed to have a pleasant laugh; his blue eyes ought to dance with so fair a bride and prospects so full and fair. But then, Rob always did have a pleasant laugh—always was a pleasant fellow, and I have no doubt that he and good fortune will take kindly to each other. Mrs. Knight's laugh is pleasant, too—sunny, and kind, and winning, and causes one feel her power as hostess and as guest. Still, I cannot help but wonder whether I do not know one heart which that sudden and surprising wedding left breaking, breaking, as the song goes. It must be a hard thing, at best, to lose a man's best girl, but when it's love and fortune both, what is there to console? There are as good fish in the sea as ever were caught, but there isn't a great run of gold fish at any season, and Oakland is not the best of fishing grounds.

While speaking of the laughs and smiles of these many children of fortune, good or ill, let me not forget that curly headed dainty, good natured, not-to-be-forgotten child of the powder magazine. You all know Will Downing, even though I have not mentioned him "for a long time now." Mr. William has been spreading himself lately; four-horse teams, black horses, pretty girls, lots of fun. That is, all combined make lots of fun. Curly headed William, Miss Cullen, Mr. Nellie Chabot, favorite child of good fortune, William Cullen, that nice-looking young fellow so popular in Oakland society, got it into their noddles that it would be a great scheme to take a four-horse team and drive and lamplight dinner at the end of it, with coaching horns, a la life in the far west. There were quite a number of accompanyists, but Will Downing was first violin and the entire band was in tune all the way down to fair Haywards and all the way home again. Miss Hush played delightfully upon the piano. All the fiddle, by the way, seems to have a turn for music. Miss Emma Wellman and Miss Jean Wellman helped to swell the number, while Rob Bennett generously contributed to the weight. Rob's beard is in prime condition now-a-days, and I trust that it will remain intact without the razor's disturbing influence for many days to come. Miss Bennett, too, was one of the charioteers, and Miss Estelle Hush and Miss Hattie Hush, despite their sibilant name, did not even suggest a damper upon the occasion. Mr. Hush did dance to swell the music. Gus and Ed Bray lent the occasion their solemn countenances, and Leslie Wright's spectacles reflected the moon's soft rays. Billy Magee Magaw and his friend Tommy, Mr. Tibell, Frank Wellman, and Mr. and Mrs. Cohen were also included in the party, and a jolly time they all had. I wonder how many were hoarse Thursday morning?

Beautiful Jenny Waters is back in Oakland after her Vassar course, and what do you think—she's got an engagement ring on one of her pretty white fingers. W. F. Bowers of the Gutta Percha Rubber Company of San Francisco is the man who placed that ring there. Whew, but he's a lucky chap! If I were a young man, instead of an old and willing maid, I'd rather have a bride like that than all the mines of Golconda or the "wealth of Ormuz and of Ind." She's a delight to the eye—a thing of beauty and a joy forever. I've always wondered what the young men were thinking about that they didn't at least make a try for that prize long ago.

They tell me that that jolly crowd of card-playing married men have recently had two set-backs, which rather dampened their fun and brought them up standing. One evening they were duly assembled at the home of a member of the party, when it was noticed that another member's chair was vacant. So the host of the evening rang up the absentee's house and shouted:

"Is Mr. X in?"

"Yes," came back a female voice with a snap to it.

"Please tell him that we're playing cards at Z's and say that we wish he'd come down."

"Mr. X is in, and he'll remain in!" came back the vigorous answer, and the enunciator went back on the hook with a click that meant business. X remained in.

On another evening the play ran late, when suddenly an apparition appeared before the players. It was the host's wife, attired in a hasty toilet.

"Gentlemen, if you have any respect for me, you will leave the card table and the house," the lady commanded, dramatically indicating the door. The hand was not played out. From this it will appear that the life of even these jolly married dogs is not altogether a happy one.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. G. Miller returned on Monday after a week's visit at Monterey.

Miss Nellie Chabot has returned from Monterey.

Miss Maud Howard has returned from an extended European trip and was entertained at dinner on Thursday evening by Miss Fanny Orr. Those who sat at table to welcome her were Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Orr, Miss Orr, Miss Hunt, Gus Bray, Fred Coon, Harry Adams and Mr. Forbes.

Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Tucker and the Misses Tucker, who have been driving through Santa Clara and Santa Cruz counties in their private conveyance, have returned after a very pleasant trip.

Miss Lizzie Boyer, one of Oakland's former belles and musical favorites, now of New York, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. Breece in San Francisco, was one of the conspicuous figures at the Lowell concert last evening. She will be entertained in this city during the week.

THE MEDDLER.

Reception to Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Hobart.

A delightful reception was tendered to Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Hobart on Tuesday evening, after their absence of two months and a half, spent in travel through the East. The reception was given under the direction of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist Church, and was a pleasing success. An unusually interesting programme was prepared, and was well carried out. It was as follows: Quartette, Choir Tenth Avenue Baptist Church; vocal solo, Miss Fannie Daw; welcome address, Miss Mabel Hempstead; vocal solo, J. M. Robinson; Del Sarte Roses, Miss Ward; quartette, Choir Tenth Avenue Baptist Church; remarks, by Rev. Mr. Hobart.

The audience was then invited to adjourn to the lecture room, where coffee and cake were served, and a pleasant reception took place. Mr. Hobart's study had been newly furnished and fixed up in his absence, and he was agreeably surprised to find how much care had been taken to make him welcome home. There were present the following pastors from other Baptist Churches: Rev. J. D. Flemming, Twenty-third Avenue Baptist Church; Rev. George B. Bieman, Twentieth Street Baptist Church; Rev. E. T. Whittemore, Berkeley; Rev. Frank Dixon, Tenth Avenue Baptist Church; Rev. W. H. Lacomette, State Missionary; Rev. J. H. Garnett, editor Leader. Among the company were Miss Ward, Miss Alice Taylor, Mrs. W. F. Southard, Mr. and Mrs. Garthwaite, Mrs. G. S. Abbot, Mr. Firbish, Mrs. Hempstead, Miss Mabel Hempstead, Miss Emma Hempstead, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Hoyt, Charles J. Baker, Mrs. W. S. Douglass, Mr. and Mrs. Dam, Miss Fannie Dam, Mr. and Mrs. Hart, Miss Carrie Hart, George Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, Mercy Stevenson, B. Lyon, Mrs. Higham, Misses Addie and Violet Higham, Miss Belle Mitchell, Albert Parker, Mrs Reagh, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Tower, Mrs. Belle, Miss Daisy Belle, Mrs. Pugh and son, Aymar Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Baker, Miss Lulu Baker, Dr. Bradway and wife, Miss Ella Bradway, J. M. Robinson.

Pape-Graham.

William Pape was married at Berkeley, Friday evening last, to Miss Emily Graham, of Oakland. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Rice, of Oakland, at the residence of the bride, at 1006 Chester street. The newly married couple left yesterday for Los Angeles, and will be absent for one week. On their return they will take up their residence in Oakland.

Lyon Post Social.

Lyon Post and corps have again started those pleasant monthly entertainments which were a few months ago suspended.

On Tuesday evening Grand Army Hall on Thirteenth street was well filled with the merry throng that generally attends the Post socials. The exercises of the evening were opened by Mr. Babcock, chairman of the Entertainment Committee, who made a few opening remarks, and announced the following programme: Song, "The Old Farm," H. T. Smith; song, "McGinty," Willie Williams; recitation, "The Young Lady of the Present Time," Miss Jennie Belden; song, "Crossing the Stile," Miss M. Allen; song, by an "Old Maid;" Messrs. Aiken and Ireland, brothers of Liberty Post, sang a song entitled "Farewell," bringing forth great applause. The programme was very well rendered, and all the participants were loudly applauded. Refreshments, consisting of cake, coffee, and sandwiches were then enjoyed by all. After this euchre tables were brought out and some passed many hours playing cards, while many mingled in the merry whirl of grandam and the laughing girl."

Among the assembly were seen the following: G. W. Valpey and wife, Miss Lizzie Knuth, James J. Delmore of San Francisco, Professor F. Carey and Miss Carey, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Carey, Mrs. H. F. Smith, Miss Susie Smith, Miss H. P. Rand, A. M. K. Storie, Mrs. Thurston, Messrs. Ireland, Past Commander Liberty Post, No. 135, of San Francisco, J. J. Chosen Friends.

The members of Oakland Council, No. 20, of the Order of Chosen Friends, held their regular social and entertainment at Masonic Hall, at Seventh and Willow streets, on Tuesday evening. There was a full attendance of members and others. Dancing, the principal feature of the evening, was enjoyed until a late hour of the night. The dancing was interspersed with music and other entertainments. The following took part in the programme: Miss E. Degner, song and declamation; Miss Thorp, reading; Miss O'Brien and Master O'Brien, cornet and violin.

Theatricals by the Elite Club.

The production of Among the Breakers by the members of the Elite Social Club on Tuesday evening was greeted enthusiastically by the large audience. The play is a comedy-drama, in which many serious and ludicrous complications are caused by the passions of love and revenge. The play was well rendered, each part being ably taken. Following is the cast of players: "David Murray, keeper of Fairport Lighthouse," Baxter Sedgely; "Harry Devine," Frank De Camp; "Hon. Bruce Hunter," Walter Smith; "Clarence Hunter, his ward," Charles Hall; "Peter Paragraph, newspaper reporter," William Angel; "Scud," Charles Herseman; "Miss Minnie Hoge," Minnie Neagle; "Bess Starlight," Laura Crocker; "Mother Carey, fortune teller," Nellie Smith; "Biddy Bean," Alicia Kelley.

After the play the hall was soon cleared, and all mingled in the merry whirl until 12 o'clock. The following were present: Mr. and Mrs. F. Courant, Miss Hattie Caton, J. Gomes, I. E. World-Renowned Face Bleach

Ladies returning from their summer's outing, their faces covered with freckles, tan or other discolorations, can not only regain but improve their natural complexions. No cause to worry. MME. RUPPERT'S FACE BLEACH will positively remove all these impurities, at the same time clearing the complexion thoroughly, restoring and promoting natural color. Face Bleach is not a cosmetic, as it does not show after applying, but is a thorough tonic, especially prepared after many years of actual practice in treating skin diseases; does not require continual use, but is a permanent cure; can be used on the most delicate child without fear of injury, yet is of sufficient strength to clear the skin of the strongest man. Face Bleach has such action on the skin that it cuts the dead, callous cuticle which covers the pores, and draws from beneath the skin all impurities which may have been years in accumulating. In this manner freckles, moth patches, tan, pimples and blackheads are entirely removed from the skin.

Face Bleach can be had at my office, or sent to any address on receipt of price: one bottle, $2; three bottles (usually required to clear the complexion), $5. Call or send 4 cents postage for sealed particulars in plain envelope.

AGAINST THE CZAR.

The Regular Conspiracy Comes Round on Time.

PARIS, August 2.—The Siecle and the Figaro print reports of a fresh nihilist plot against the czar, which has been discovered in St. Petersburg. According to these reports Professor Corivoiski, of the University of St. Petersburg, and a number of students of the institution, who, it is alleged, were concerned in the plot, have been arrested. Many persons were taken into custody in Moscow on the same charge. Two officers of high rank in the Russian army committed suicide, and it is supposed they were found implicated in the conspiracy, and took their lives rather than undergo arrest and punishment.

MORTGAGED FARMERS

INJURED FOR LIFE.

Another Suit Growing Out of the Webster Street Bridge Disaster.

William Davis has brought a suit in this county against the Southern Pacific Company to recover $15,150 damages. He asserts that he was a passenger on the narrow gauge train on May 30, 1890, which was wrecked at the Webster street drawbridge. Davis says that the car in which he was seated was so violently stopped that he received great injury to his body, being thrown against the seats and other portions of the car. He believes that the injuries he received are permanent and that he will be disabled for life. George A. Rankin is his attorney.

SWEET HARMONY.

Music Makers and the Auditors Who Are Ignorant.

Miss Augusta Lowell, Who Went Away a Student and Returns an Artist—Mr. Hawthorne's Concert.

Everything in the performance of the musical artists at Miss Lowell's testimonial concert last evening contributed to constitute an entertainment of merit, but the audience insisted upon interfering with the artistic harmony of a concert of good music. Oh! that audiences would learn what is good form in concerts, and that the ignorant would desist from troubling and the asses would stay at rest. The encore fiend was present last evening. He applauded vociferously—at the wrong time. He brought together his paws and expelling the air from between his broad palms, made strange sounds and incongruous. He did not show appreciation of merit. He simply "clapped the show." The encore fiend is a hideous intrusion in a good musical entertainment. He expands the programme to improper lengths; he tires his neighbors and he annoys the performers, who know what is delicate appreciation and what is senseless noise. Last evening the people in the audience broke in with applause during a pause in the music, before the conclusion of the selection.

Proper ackne wledgement of a fine musical performance by applause, as general as the performer merits, is appropriate and in good taste. It shows the appreciation of the audience and encourages and inspires the musician. But people of one class applaud everything, and some kind-hearted souls, who do not like to see one performer receive less attention than another, without consideration of their comparative merits, sound their noisy applauses after each selection and require encores. This is bad. Inspect the noisy applauders at a concert and one will find them the young boys scattered over the auditorium. Is their violent applause appreciation?

Whether the organ is an instrument suitable for concert solos is not yet determined by musicians. The organ, majestic and noble, grandest of instruments, is deemed to lack the lightness and the tenderness of strings in an orchestra and hence not capable of giving, in solo, the delicate effects of the orchestra, of which it is the compendium. However musicians may opine on this subject, Miss Lowell's management of the great instrument is grand, masterful and artistic. The organ of the First Presbyterian Church, though the best in Oakland, is not such an instrument as the best in Oakland should be, yet it sang last evening, as it has seldom sung before. Miss Lowell, by her technical skill and musical art, showed how truly she deserves the great reputation she has gained in the East.

S. L. Seed, the violinist, played varied selections, one of exceeding technical difficulty, with the grace, ease, and power that entitle him to the declamation of virtuoso.

Miss Marie Barnard is about to go East to become the soloist of the Mendelssohn Quartette Club. She sang last evening in Oakland for the last time before her departure. Her rich contralto will be missed from here.

The audience—in size—was a pleasing compliment to Miss Augusta Lowell, who went away from Oakland a student and returns a true and thorough musician.

But the acoustics and the ventilation of the First Presbyterian Church are bad.

On Friday evening of next week, at Hamilton Hall, the friends of A. M. Hawthorne, the basso-contralto, will tender him a testimonial benefit concert. A subscription list has been numerously signed by such a class of people as will make the affair a select one. A most attractive programme is announced, including the names of Alfred Wilkie, Mme. Ida de Seminario, Mr. Hawthorne, a male quartette, and a pianist.

The Reception to Bishop Nichols.

A reception will be tendered to the Right Rev. William F. Nichols, Assistant Bishop of California, by the parishes of the Episcopal Church of Alameda county, at the residence of George E. Whitney, No. 576 Eighth street, corner of Jefferson, on Tuesday, August 12th, from 4 to 8 P. M.

Will Not Offend Again.

James H. Jones, who was brought down from Sacramento for failing to provide for his wife and family here, was discharged from custody yesterday morning it being shown in court that he had agreed to support them in the future.

The Sciopticon.

Senator Blair Proposes a Change in the Rules

IN ORDER TO EXPEDITE BUSINESS.

The Senate Talking of Imitating the New Procedure of the House—Morgan Gets Back at Blair.

WASHINGTON, August 2.—The Senate met at 10 o'clock, and on a call of the roll forty-nine Senators, six more than a quorum, were present. The resolution offered yesterday by Blair, instructing the committee on rules to report (within four days) a rule for the incorporation on the previous question rule of some method for limiting and closing debate in the partisan tary procedure of the Senate was taken up. Blair said that Senators had spoken to him indicating that they desire to be heard before action should be taken in the matter and that they were not ready to proceed. He should, therefore, not press the resolution this morning, but he desired to say that he had offered the resolution not with special reference to any pending bill, but with a feeling that there was a necessity for the proposed change. The period has arrived, when, in the transaction of the country's business, the Senate must have some way by which the larger number of important public measures could be decided. As it now was the whole business of the country was at the mercy of one or two individuals who might be opposed to a measure. The majority was practically under the control of the minority. Nobody could complain that there had been a disposition to procrastinate or to obstruct the ordinary course of debate, and the decision of the Tariff bill, and yet, although the Senate had already spent ten days upon it, only fifteen pages had been disposed of out of a total of 182 pages in the bill, and all the great subjects of discussion, sugar, reciprocity, etc., were still to come. There was no reason to suppose, therefore, that under the existing rules the bill would be concluded before next December. He had offered the resolution with a view not to any pending measure, but with a view to a fundamental, radical, indispensable change in the parliamentary procedure of the Senate.

Morgan reminded Blair of the long time (six or seven weeks) consumed in the consideration of the Education bill and said that the time had not been wasted. The result of the discussion was that the bill had been defeated. Just as he hoped the discussion of the Tariff bill would result in the defeat of that measure.

The resolution was referred to the Committee on Rules.

The Tariff bill was then taken up, the question being upon Vest's amendment to reduce the duty on decorated china to 50 per cent, ad valorem, and on plain white china to 40 per cent instead of 60 and 55 per cent in House bill, and 55 and 50 per cent as proposed by the Finance Committee. The amendment was discussed pro and con, at length.

THE TROTTERS.

Palo Alto Goes Against Jack on the Detroit Track.

A Warm Day, a Good Track and a Great Race Between Two Noted Flyers, for Glory and $5000.

DETROIT, August 2.—This afternoon the race between Palo Alto, 2:12½, the great son of Electioneer, and the gelding Jack, with a record of 2:15, will take place. The weather at 2:30 o'clock was hot and clear with a fine breeze blowing and the track in splendid shape. Charles Marvin will drive Palo Alto and Budd Doble will guide Jack. The prospects are good for a great race and a fast one, as both horses are in excellent condition, and their reputation depends upon the outcome. The stake is $5000.

Jack won the first heat handily in 2:15½. Palo Alto broke twice. The betting was 100 to 60 and 70 in favor of Palo Alto.

A KIDNAPPING CASE.

The Child Taken to Oregon—The Police in Pursuit.

An noon today Chief Tompkins received from Sacramento requisition papers for service in Oregon, and he will take them north himself at once. The matter at issue is as follows: Up to a few months ago there lived in Oakland, at different places, a mariner named Olaf W. Olsen, his wife and 6 year old daughter. Olsen was absent at sea most of the time and his wife, having learned his illicit intercourse on shore that his wife was unfaithful to him, he investigated and his inquiries resulted in his obtaining a divorce from her. The court awarded the child to him, and he placed the little one in charge of his sister, who lives in the Watts tract. Meantime his divorced wife had drifted up to Portland Or., and the rumor had reached here that she had gone into a house of prostitution.

On Tuesday Mrs. Olsen returned from one of his sea trips, and on going to his sister's house found that the child had gone. He was told that a month or so ago his former wife had come down from Portland, brought the boy's half brother with her, and they had entered the child out of the house while there was no one about to watch them, and had taken her to Oregon. Olsen at once put the matter in the hands of the police. Chief Tompkins, armed with warrants and requisitions, will bring back with the child one Frank Anderson, the man who stole her away.

AN ITCH FOR OFFICE.

What the Politicians Are Saying and Doing.

THAT FOURTH WARD COMBINATION.

Alameda's Candidate for Clerk of the Supreme Court—Meeting of the State Convention Delegates.

There is no end of small timber with which to keep the political pot boiling, for there is a rumor or a prediction upon every tongue. The candidates who dance around the pot are already beginning to chant the refrain. "Double, double, toil and trouble." Even the Ex of J. L. Scotchler, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, is not all roses and rollickings. He dodges from one corner to another, nursing his already frayed buttonhole.

"I am pestered to death," he said today. "I cannot venture abroad that I am not at once set upon by all sorts of people who are interested in the time for holding the county convention. One chases along and says, 'shall the convention right away? We can't wait. Hardly is the echo of his words out of my ears before another fixes me and says, 'Good, in heaven's name, call that convention before to-morrow.' Each one has purchased for all sorts of dates between these extremes.

"As a general thing it is the candidates who pay for a short campaign, the 'workers' for a long one. It is the pocket of each which prompts the wish which is father to the thought. The worker wants a long pull and a strong pull at the candidate. The candidate would have as short a session with the leeches as is possible."

Mr. Scotchler said, among other things today, that he had very little notion of getting into the fight for the nomination for County Clerk. Some of his friends have urged him, but he has all-at-once concluded that it would not pay. This will leave Messrs. Beardsley, Chandler and O'Brien to fight it out, with Jim Grant as a possibility.

"Now is the time to plant combinations," is the advice of the political sage to the sojourner candidates. Already the growth of the plants has begun. In the Fourth Ward it is said that Frank O'Brien, candidate for Assessor, Al. Wyckoff, candidate for Recorder, R. Barber, candidate for Tax Collector, and Bart Morgan, candidate for Supervisor, have joined forces to make the fight in the ward. One rumor says that Wyckoff, Morgan, candidate for Sheriff, is in the combination, but another story is to the effect that Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Allen has worked rings on behalf of his principal, W. E. Hale. It is also understood that Judge F. W. Henshaw, candidate for Superior Judge, and R. S. Lackie, candidate for Assessor, will have a joint ticket in the field at the Seventh Ward primaries, both being residents of that ward. This delegation, however, is not expected to be a very large one. Delegation of it is elected; but it will force Judge A. B. Hunt, also a candidate for Superior Court Judge, and also a resident in the Seventh ward, to get up some other combination.

By the action of dividing the County Clerk's office from that of Auditor, the Supervisors have parted the last of the combined offices in the county. The auditor's office pays $200 a year, just as it has received but little attention from the politicians. Deputy Assessor Myron Whitcomb being the only candidate for the place so far announced.

There was a more or less defined rumor today that, after the wails of the successor to Senator Frank J. Mollitt and all the efforts of the avowed candidates, the nomination was apt to go to ex-County Recorder, Firm D. Hinds. Though Mr. Hinds is not openly in the fight, it is said that he has friends who are making a quiet effort to secure the nomination for him. As a matter of fact, Mr. Hinds has been the spryest of the entire campaign. No one knows what he is doing all the time, but combinations for. It is also reported that H. A. Powell will again be a candidate in Mollitt's district. George E. Whitney is also mentioned to be a candidate.

Ex-Supervisor Edward Shands and Ben Denison are also making things very lively in this district, and each has many warm supporters.

Ex-Councilman J. C. Wilson is not to have a free field in his efforts to secure the nomination for the Assembly to succeed M. C. Chrisman. A. L. Frick's friends say that he is out for the nomination, and to give Mr. Wilson another run in the old, old fight in the Second ward.

D. E. Harwood of Fruit Vale is out and out a candidate for the Republican nomination for Supervisor in D. W. Martin's district. Mr. Herwood was born in Fruit Vale and is engaged in farming. He is getting his cards inserted in the papers of his district.

Charles B. Overacker of Niles, at present Deputy County Clerk, acting as Clerk of Judge Gibson's court, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Clerk of the Superior Court. He will undoubtedly have the solid support of the Alameda delegation, as he has been for years one of the most active and intelligent supporters of Republican principles in the county. He is a native son, a member of the Athenian club and an all around good fellow.

Hon. L. H. Brown, formerly of Haywards, who was elected to the Assembly from this county several times, has been elected a delegate to the Republican State Convention from Solano county, he being now a resident of Collinsville. It is said that he is a candidate for Clerk of the Supreme Court, and that he expects to poll a large vote through the influence of his father-in-law, United States Marshal Long.

In this connection a good story got out today. Where several were gathered together it was announced that Brown was a candidate for Clerk of the Supreme Court.

"What?" exclaimed Deputy County Clerk Overacker, himself a candidate for the place; "why, I saw Brown the other day, and he didn't say anything about it. In fact, I asked him to support me in the convention."

The Examiner of this morning says that a telegram has been received from Hon. Charles N. Felton saying that he will not be a candidate for Governor under any circumstances. This is supposed to dispose of the talk of a possible stampede to him in the Republican Convention.

There is a great agitation in the American party—what there is left of it. The State Convention will meet on Monday next in San Francisco, and the trouble is over the proposed endorsement of General Bidwell of Butte, the Prohibition party nominee for Governor. There are many of those who still cling to the American party who are strongly opposed to this, and this element favors the nomination of George W. Grayson, of this city, as the party's standard-bearer. Some of those opposing Bidwell say they will leave the party if he is indorsed. Harry Gordon of this city declined to go as a delegate to the convention, because he believes that Bidwell will be indorsed, and hence he will not support him if he is. Commodore Al Havens also has no use for prohibition. In face of this threatened split, and the fact that leaders like W. H. Chickering and Arthur Dousell have gone back into the Republican fold, it hardly seems probable, at this writing, that the Americans will make an effort to put a county ticket in the field.

The Alameda county delegates to the Republican State Convention will meet at 8 o'clock this evening at the law offices of V. H. and George D. Metcalf in the Delger Building, southwest corner of Tenth street and Broadway. Those who were instrumental in issuing the meeting called, say that its purpose is merely a discussion of matters preliminary to the meeting of the convention. Some effort may be made to have the delegation indorse Charles B. Overacker for Clerk of the Supreme Court and William H. Jordan for Lieutenant Governor.

TOO MANY.

The Population of Oakland Boomed by a Mistake.

A press dispatch sent from Sacramento last even ng, printed in the San Francisco papers, c ntained the following astounding information:

Census upervisor Anderson tonight received the delaye d returns from the Stockton Insane asylum and the Oakland annex, and tomorrow he will close his census report and send the final returns to Washington. Oakland will have 65 to 1 61,000 population, and Alameda county 92 ,58.

An increase of 10,000 in one jump seemed too much to expect even from the mercurial Supervisor Anderson. A telegram was sent by THE TRIBUNE to Sacramento inquiring for the truth and the following reply quiets our ambition.

SACRAMENTO, August 2d.

Tribune, Oakland: Press reports in error. Anderson said the population of Oakland would be over fifty thousand.

The Associated Press correspondent in Sacramento should take a reef of 10,000 points in his pencil arm. Since the lethargic citizens of Oakland have determined not to pay for a recount, let us be consistent and stick to our little 50,000 or 51,000.

The following is an Associated Press despatch received this afternoon:

SACRAMENTO, August 2.—Associated Press dispatches state that the statements published this morning crediting Census Supervisor Anderson with saying that Oakland has 65,000 population was a mistake. The reporter so understood the Supervisor, but he explains that he said 50,000, and that it will probably run a few hundred over. One rough estimate foots up 50,500.

THE SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY

Great Interest in the Cases of the Two Berkeley Principals.

The Return of Superintendent Fisher. Certificates Granted by the County Board of Education.

County Superintendent Fisher returned last evening from a week's vacation in Mendocino county. He has no fish stories to relate but has a full stock of deer stories. Mr. Fisher spent most of his time in hunting.

Warren Loree has been elected to a position in the Niles school.

The members of the County Board of Education are taking a great deal of interest in the cases of Principals Voghte and Harris of Berkeley, who were recently ousted by the Board of Education of that place. The schools will re-open next Monday, and it is stated that the gentlemen will be at the schools and report for duty in order to take advantage of every legal point.

It is stated that Charles Clement, ex-Principal of the Livermore school, will support for duty next Monday and demand his position. He will claim that he was removed without cause, contrary to law. Superintendent Fisher states that the School Trustees elect the teachers for only one year. L. H. Walker, the new principal, will take charge of the school Monday.

The County Board of Education held a regular meeting at the Court House this morning. There were present President Lynch, Directors Campbell, Laidlaw, Dickson and Secretary Fisher.

Director Campbell called the attention of the Board to a map of the bay counties which has been prepared by Bancroft, and suggested that it be placed on the list of maps of the county schools.

A grammar school course certificate was granted to F. B. Hooper, who was recently elected to a position in the Alvarado school. Alice B. H. Walker, resigned. Evaleana L. Dickinson was also granted a grammar school course certificate.

Grammar grade certificates were granted Sarah Fox, Ella J. Forward, Warren Loree, Anna E. Wilson, and Carrie L. Heacock.

Mamie J. Russell, a teacher in the Mowry Landing school, was granted a Grammar grade certificate.

On the old First grade certificates Isa C. Lindemann, Minnie E. McKean, Emily F. Lord and Arthur W. Scott were granted Grammar grade certificates.

Ella M. Castele, nee O'Brien, who was married by contract while teaching in the Alameda school department, asked to have her First grade certificate renewed. Director Dickson was asked if he had any objection to renewing the certificate and suggested that he thought it all right as a teacher had a right to get married if she so desired. So the certificate was renewed.

W. C. Spencer has been elected a teacher in the Warm Springs school at a salary of $70 a month. The action of Superintendent Fisher in granting him a temporary grammar grade certificate was approved by the board.

A New Music Firm.

Justin Ostell, composer of the Alhance March, well-known as a leading and very successful music trade man of many years' experience in San Francisco and San Jose, and Horace A. Bedfield, for years identified with musical enterprises of this city, have formed a co-partnership, and purchased the music and musical merchandise business of Kohler & Chase, which they will henceforth conduct at the present location. In connection with it they will carry on "The Music and Dramatic Bureau," in which enterprise the veteran Stephen W. Leach is associated. The firm have a strong hold to begin with and will undoubtedly succeed.

INTERESTING TO YOUNG.

An Important Baptist Conference at Twin Lake Park.

In response to a call made through the Leader of San Francisco, the Baptist organ of this State, a number of representatives from various Baptist churches assembled at Twin Lake Park, the Baptist resort, near Santa Cruz, July 31st, for the purpose, as Rev. J. H. Garnett stated, of conferring with one another about the matter of drawing the young people of the denomination nearer together, and interesting them by organization, or in some way, in denominational affairs.

Rev. Mr. Herrick, of Sacramento, was elected President of the conference, and James Beauchier, of Oakland, Secretary.

Representatives were called on by the President for opinions and suggestions. It was at once discovered that any attempt to impair the unselfishness of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor would fail. There had, however, been no such effort made avowedly. To give form and direction to discussion, Rev. Frank Dixon, of East Oakland, offered the following resolutions, which he believed opened the way toward a wise adjustment of the relations between the young people and the churches.

Whereas, We recognize, with gratitude to God, the marvelous development of Christian zeal among the young people of the Baptist churches, which is the characteristic of recent years; and

Whereas, We deem it obligatory upon the churches to foster and direct this movement in the interest of denominational Christian life; therefore, be it

Resolved, 1. That every Baptist church in the State of California be urged to develop young people under the age of 25, as represented by the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor and kindred organizations, one third representation in each delegation sent to the various associations and to the General Convention of the state.

2. That we recommend to each Baptist church the wisdom of sending delegates to the next State convention, instructed to support any resolution or law providing for the appointment of one young delegate upon each committee of the convention.

3. That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the Leader, with request for publication.

Strenuous opposition was made to these resolutions on the part of some who had been instrumental in calling the Conference. After an earnest debate, in which almost every representative participated, two amendments were offered, one by Rev. Mr. Sullivan of Los Gatos, the other by Dr. Hartwell of San Francisco. The first read as follows:

Resolved, That we recommend to all young people's societies in Baptist churches in this State, the introduction of topics at their prayer meetings, bearing upon distinctively denominational doctrine and work.

The amendment was immediately accepted by the author of the resolution. The second amendment was the following:

Resolved, That we urge the organization of a Young People's State Conference, to be held in connection with the Baptist State Convention.

This resolution was likewise accepted. Opposition to the resolutions was thus withdrawn, and they were passed by a unanimous and enthusiastic vote, every representative being delighted with the termination of the Conference. It was a general opinion, too, that Twin Lake Park is destined to be an early and a beautiful [illegible]

A QUESTION OF TITLE.

A Man Charged With Selling Property He Never Owned.

M. B. Glasson was desirous of purchasing some real estate a few months ago, so he went to A. C. Gilbert, a real estate agent, and informed him of his intentions. Gilbert told him he had just the piece of property he wanted, and offered him a lot at a reasonable price. Glasson accepted the terms, and paid down $1000 cash, and was given time in which to pay the remainder. In the meantime he discovered that Gilbert could not give any title to the property, and, in fact, he never owned the land, nor did he ever have authority from the owner to sell it. Glasson then brought a suit to recover the $1000 advanced. Gilbert did not take the trouble to answer the complaint, and judgment was given for Glasson by default. An execution was issued, but it was found that Gilbert did not have any property, and the judgment could not be satisfied. Sam Bell McKee, who is attorney for Glassen, this morning secured an order requiring Gilbert to appear in court and undergo an examination to show what he has done with his property.

PUNISHING A BOY.

The First Case Investigated by the Newly Organized Humane Society.

A few days ago, the neighbors of Dr. Meek, called the attention of officers to his conduct, asserting that he had beaten too severely, his 12 year old nephew. Dr. Meek frankly said that he had chastised the boy, but asserted that he punished him as he deserved, because he had stolen a dollar. The neighbors called the matter to the attention of Mr. Theobald, the Secretary of the Humane Society of Alameda county, who interested himself in the case and after investigating the charges he came to the conclusion that some action should be taken. When Mr. Theobald laid the case before the authorities they seemed to question his authority to arrest the Doctor. The office was not baffled however, and he determined to secure the custody of the boy, and, on investigation, ascertained that the lad had been sent away from his uncle's home. This morning Mr. Theobald obtained information of the little fellow's whereabouts, found him near Walnut Creek, and at once left for the place in order to find the boy.

THE STREET SERVICE.

Annual Report in Preparation — Some Statistics.

Street Superintendent Wall has nearly completed the first annual report of his department under the new charter. It shows the following statistics:

Roadways of thirty-six streets were macadamized, a total of 1,413,753 feet being paved, at an expense of $107,318 22. The total cost of the assessments for the work amounts to $175,810 62, this including engineer's fees and all expenses.

Forty-three streets were sewered at a total cost of $26,705 90, a total of 27,343 feet of pipe being laid. Seventy-three brick and thirty-three iron manholes were made.

COULD NOT ANSWER.

Incompetent Applicants for Citizenship Go to San Francisco.

Ten Portuguese came to the Courthouse this morning for the purpose of being made citizens. They searched for Judge Gibson, but could not find him, and finally concluded to take their chances before Judge Ellsworth. The first three who took the examination were rejected, and this had the effect of keeping the others weeding, and they declined to go before the Judge to stand the test. They then held a consultation, and finally decided to go to San Francisco where, they thought, they could be made citizens very easily.

New Incorporations.

The Pacific Fertilizing Company has incorporated in San Francisco with W. B. Wightman as one of the directors.

The Wampum Trust Company has also incorporated, with Horace Hawes and A. E. Hawes of San Leandro, Fred C. Clift of Oakland, and N. H. Frank and C. L. Benton as directors. Capital stock, $250,000, divided into 25 shares; $50,000 subscribed.

H. W. Snow of Oakland is a director of the Banner Vineyard Company.

Charles L. Bentley Jr. and Walter F. Bentley, both of this city, are directors of the Joseph N. Souther Manufacturing Company, just incorporated.

Army and Navy League.

The Army and Navy Republican league held a meeting at Dania Hall last evening.

The actions of the civil service commission in questioning on subjects in no way related to the work to be done were loudly condemned, many thinking that the commission had made a special strike at the old soldiers.

W. H. H. Hussey, Judge Ellsworth, H. T. Smith and others promised material and financial aid for the coming campaign.

He Keeps a Cesspool.

Cal. McCarty was arraigned in the Police Court yesterday for his tenement for maintaining a cesspool on his premises on Third and Brush streets. He entered a plea of not guilty, and the trial was set for August 5th.

In Jail for Perjury.

Al Hing has been locked up in the County Jail to await trial on a charge of perjury. He is accused of swearing falsely in a case wherein he was accused of selling lottery tickets.

County Physician's Report.

County Physician Legler has presented his report for the month of July. During the month 69 patients were admitted to the Receiving Hospital, and 11 prisoners treated at the County Jail.

Eva Blethen's Reply.

Frank M. Blethen recently brought a suit to secure a divorce from Eva May Blethen on the ground of desertion. The defendant filed an answer today in which she denies the charge.

Connelly Acquitted.

Frank Connelly, accused of an assault with a deadly weapon, was found not guilty by a jury before Judge Gibson yesterday afternoon.

Granted a Divorce.

Judge Gibson has granted Helen M. Hooper a divorce from William H. Hooper on the ground of failure to provide. The parties reside in Alameda.

A Bright Day.

A hot sun, a clear day and very light wind made a combination that sent the mercury up to 76 degrees at noon today.

A Good Drinking Crowd.

The classified list of arrests during the past month shows that 170 individuals were arrested for drunkenness.

THE PASSING SHOW.

The Stage and the Players in California.

SUMMER SEASON IN THE FAR WEST.

The Benefit of "Private Secretary" J. N. Long—Scanlan to Follow "The City Directory."

Lillian Lamson, the Oakland girl, who would be an actress, has given up her intention to make a starring tour through the Northwest, and expects to take an engagement with a company. Her debut at the California Theater, San Francisco, cost about $100). She has a sister who is also inclined to the stage.

Charles E. Cook, for many years Secretary of the Baldwin Theater, San Francisco, will leave the theater to take the position of advance agent for Fanny Davenport. George E. Lask leaves the Bush Street Theater to become business manager of The Shatchen Company.

M. B. Curtis, in The Shatchen, will play eastward, opening in Chicago on August 10th.

W. J. Scanlan will play at the California Theater, San Francisco, after The City Directory engagement is over.

Paul Potter, who sketched The City Directory, was formerly with Alfred Trumble on Town Topics.

The new Powell Street Theater, opposite the Baldwin, San Francisco, will reopen in November next, with the Henry Burlesque Company.

Elliott's Voyagers and the Japanese Chrysanthemum troupe will give their last performance this evening at the Oakland Theater. The Elliott family are wonderful wheel riders, performing on unicycles, as well as bicycles. The Japanese are clever athletes.

San Francisco Theaters.

The Palmer Company will leave the Baldwin after next week. The arrangement of plays for the final week is as follows: Monday and Wednesday, One Touch of Nature and Aunt Jack; Tuesday and Thursday, Captain Swift; Friday and Saturday evenings, and Saturday matinee, Jim, the Penman. During this week the play is the ever-charming Saints and Sinners.

Joseph Grismer is going to extremes to cater to popular taste. He found melodrama profitable and therefore procured Charles Gayler's new play, Lights and Shadows, a sensational play in which the principal scene is pitched from La Tosca, omitting Sardou's genius. It is not a good play, but it is very well played by Mr. Grismer and Phoebe Davies Grismer. Kidder's Under the Yoke is next to be played by the Grismers.

At the Baldwin Theater on Thursday afternoon, August 7th, at 1:30 o'clock, a testimonial will be tendered by the amusement profession now in San Francisco to "Private Secretary" J. N. Long, well remembered as a popular member of the old California Theater stock and other companies. For the past eight months Mr. Long has been confined to his bed, suffering from a compound fracture of the knee, which resulted in a sort of necrosis of the bone. The Palmer Company will present their most popular one-act piece; also a minstrel first-part will be given with forty performers, Charlie Reed and Burt Haverly on the ends, and the musical portion of which will be under the direction of W. S. Mullaly. A singing and dramatic interlude follows, in which all of the City Directory, Palmer Company and others will participate. The success of the Lask-Cook benefit, Silent System and the Grismer-Davies Company in an act from one of their favorite plays are also down, and the whole will conclude with the burlesque of Camille, as presented at the Five A's benefit in New York, with Will Collier as "Camille," Charlie Reed as "Armand," James Corbett, who makes his debut as an actor, as "De Varville," and all the prominent managers, professionals and celebrities as guests.

Splinters From the Boards.

E. H. Sothern's new play next season will be called The Maester of Woodbarrow.

Miss Ida Mulle will be the "Cinderella" of The Crystal Slipper on the road next season.

Fay Templeton will not be able to appear in New York owing to her old contract with E. E. Rice. The matter has gone into the lawyers' hands and if a compromise be not affected, Fay will return to Paris for another year's rest.

London club gossipis that the Marquis de Leuville, of notorious notoriety, is to become the new ruler of the Princess' Theater. It appears that the Marquis has written an operetta that he would like produced, and this could only be achieved by him having a theater of his own. Hence his hunt after a lessee ship.

A telegram from Chicago says that Mrs. William T. Hunter, wife of the treasurer of the Grand Opera House, was declared insane in the County Court, Monday morning. The attack is supposed to be the result of overwork and mental worry. Mrs. Hunter was well known on the stage as Rillie Deaves. She is a sister of Ada Deaves.

Gus Williams and John T. Kelly, who were with Herrmann's Vaudeville Company, are working very hard with the author of their new play, You and I, preparing good business and side-splitting comedy scenes. An excellent company is engaged to support them, and Messrs. Randall and Dickson have booked a long and favorable tour for them.

With the exception of Miss Sanson, all of the ladies in Frank Daniels's company will be new to Little Puck. Foremost among them is Jessie Ollivier, recently with the Boston Ideals, who is an excellent singer. Then there are Lillian Barr, Kate Allen, Fanny Johnston, Annetta Zelna and other bright girls, who have made for themselves names in farcical comedy work.

A new star is to be introduced shortly to the theatrical firmament by Signor D. de Viro. It is a singer named Alina Albaiza, who has already made a name in European cities. She is said to be the peer of Ilma di Murska. Her voice is a high soprano. She is able to reach, easily, high E. She is also said to be very pretty. Mlle. Albaiza will be the principal member of a grand operatic concert company that Signor de Viro is organizing for a tour next season.

The Emma Juch Grand English Opera Company is to open its season at the Broadway Theater, Denver, August 18th. This will be one of the largest organizations of the kind ever seen in this country since the original American Opera Company. It comprises a company of 125 people, principals and chorus, besides an orchestra of fifty, and all the necessary scenery and costumes and equipments for the presentation of a repertoire of twenty of the standard operas.

Hoyt and Thomas will have four companies on the road next season; A Trip to Chinatown, purely a farce-comedy in which the scene is in San Francisco, the plot hinging on the happenings at a masquerade ball; A Texas Steer, a comedy of The Henrietta order; A Brass Monkey, and A Midnight Bell. A Trip to Chinatown will open in the West and go direct to San Francisco with Lena Merville and John Connors as the principals. It will not be seen in New York until early next season. A Texas Steer opens at Columbus, O., September 1st, and then will go to Chicago, after which it will jump back to the New York Bijou, to begin a run November 10th. A Brass Monkey opens in New England goes to Boston September 1st. A Midnight Bell opens at Tacoma August 23d, then goes to San Francisco, and then en route towards the East, with a splendid company, including Eugene Canfield, George Richards, Frank Lane, J. W. Hague, Dick Dillon, Percy Haswell. Meanwhile Charles H. Hoyt is at his country Home at Charleston, N. H., revising and improving the four above-named plays.

C. de Garmo was in New York last week, on his way from Paris to Chicago, where he purposes completing arrangements for his contribution to the general attractions of the World's Fair. Mr. de Garmo's plans, as yet, are hardly matured, but his chief piece of enterprise will consist in bringing to this country a band of Turkish dancing girls who have never hitherto left their native country. These girls, it appears, are at present attached to the Sultan's palace, where they cater daily to the amusement of the unspeakable Turk. If the description given of the dances these oriental damsels indulge in is correct, Carmencita's days of financial sunshine are numbered. They include the danse de ventre a l'Orientale, the Nautch dance, the dagger dance, and the spinning-wheel a la Parisienne. Native musicians will play a weird accompaniment on still weirder instruments. Mr. de Garmo will also select an appropriate space for the laying out of a fac-simile of the city of Constantinople. If this is so, the good citizens of the Windy City will see the Golden Horn sooner than they hoped for.—New York Mirror.

MR. MEYER A CITIZEN.

He Renounces His Allegiance to the Queen and Empress.

Charles Clark McIver, a native of Canada, renounced his allegiance to Queen Victoria this morning and was admitted to citizenship by Judge Ellsworth. C. B. Overacker and S. Huff vouched for his good character. Mr. McIver passed a very creditable examination, and showed that he is familiar with the laws of the land. He has resided at Mission San Jose for several years where he has large interests.

A Fatal Result of the Fourth.

Charles E. Allen, a boy 12 years old, died at the home of his widowed mother at 822 East Fourteenth street yesterday afternoon. He was seriously burned on July 4th by the explosion of a small cannon. For a time his injuries were thought not to be very serious, but despite the efforts of a physician, his injuries proved fatal.

W. G. Burwell has an office at 960 Broadway, under direction of the Democratic County Central Committee for aiding those in need of assistance in getting out their naturalization papers.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of the TRIBUNE will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

DR. BLUETT.

His Oakland practice would not permit of his continuing his office in San Francisco, so he has decided to give up the San Francisco office and devote more attention to his large Oakland practice, and will be found at his office, 1089 Broadway, from 9 A. M. to 12 M. and 1 to 4 and 7 to 9 P. M., where he can be consulted on indigestion and all chronic diseases.

How to Count the People.

It seems strange so much difficulty should be experienced in arriving at the exact number of people in this city when such an easy and accurate means is so easy of access. It will be only necessary for a dozen or so enumerators to stand in front of the mammoth stores of Henry Schellhaas at Eleventh and Franklin streets, and count the people as they come in to make purchases. Every body comes to Schellhaas' place because he keeps the finest line of furniture and household supplies in the city. Call on him and see for yourself.

The Smith Divorce.

During the trial of the Smith divorce it was shown that the husband and wife had quarrelled over so small a thing as a photograph which the lady recently had taken. The picture was a very poor one and he objected to her giving them to her friends. If she had gone to Ormsby, the well known photographer, at 1053 Broadway, for her cabinet she might have been sure of getting a striking likeness. Ormsby's pictures are the finest in the city, and are cheaper than others. The fact that the elite patronize him should be proof of his popularity.

MARKETING!

There is nothing half so satisfying to the marketer as to be able to obtain choice viands at a cheap cost. This is the important duty of the good marketer and to his or her skill and care is due in great part the pleasure, of the table. Economy, too, is a point closely looked after by the successful marketer, seeking to obtain the best for the least money. A nice table, plentifully stocked with the choicest viands obtainable, at little cost is a joy to the household.

Information on this point will be joyfully received by the lady and gentlemen marketers of Oakland. It was with the idea of being able to supply the public with the best at the least cost that Stark & Co. opened their business in the Grand Central Market on Washington street. How well the new firm have succeeded is proven by the extraordinary success already achieved. Stark & Co's establishment is already the joy of the Oakland marketer.

Stark & Co. make a specialty of choice butter and eggs. It will pay the marketer to call.

TOWN AND GOWN.

Events That Happen and Transpire in Fair Berkeley Land.

About 200 voters of Berkeley have already registered.

The work on the Oxford street culvert is progressing rapidly.

D. L. Bishop has removed to San Francisco with his family.

Dr. J. A. D. Hutton will leave for the country next week to be absent for a week.

Thomas Hann has decined to have a bituminous rock sidewalk in front of his new block.

Misses Josepine and Alice Stewart of North Berkeley have returned from Placerville, where they have been visiting for two months.

A bicycle club has been organized in this town by Messrs. Irvin Metcalf, J. Hume, Jr., F. Marquand, F. Baker, H. Derby, and C. Clark.

J. D. Haegerty will be tried again on the charge for which he was tried last Wednesday in Oakland, the jury having disagreed at that trial.

A party composed of H. L. Whitney, John Acheson, and half a dozen other business men of the town, will leave next week for Lake county, where they will hunt for two weeks.

Captain J. T. Morrison, in filling out his assessment blank, not desiring to have his list of personal property disputed, put down "two cats, value one cent." The same is now transcribed on the Assessor's books, and Captain Morrison will have to pay taxes on his cats this year.

Along the West Bay Shore.

WEST BERKELEY, August 2, 1890.

A social dance will be given in Taylor's Hall, next Tuesday evening, by some of the young people of the West End of town.

C. H. Guerrin is about to build, at a cost of $3500, a house in East Berkeley, on Shattuck avenue, near Berkeley way. When it if completed he will remove to the East End.

Poundmaster Hughes visited this end of town yesterday, much to the disgust of several residents. He came near being mobbed on capturing Mrs. Cohen's horse, but came out successful, and got the dollar fine.

Where the Roads Cross.

GOLDEN GATE, August 2, 1890

A. L. Stenly of the Hibernian Bank of San Francisco, has hired Mrs. H. Davy's house and soon will remove into it.

The drug store of this place has again changed hands. Dr. Collins has sold out to Dr. W. F. Hasemeyer of San Francisco.

A new millinery shop is about to be opened in the building next to Jeffers & White's real estate office on San Pablo avenue.

THE NEWS CONFIRMED.

Kye Died in Texas From Consumption and Typhoid Fever.

Constable Jones of Martinez has received a telegram from S. W. Walthall, County Judge at Big Springs, Texas, announcing the death and burial at that place of William Kye, the would-be railroad builder in Contra Costa county, who pretended to be representing the Vanderbilts and who skipped out owing several thousand dollars. Kye was on his way to Utica, N. Y. to visit his parents, when consumption and typhoid fever caused him to stop. Kye's California name was an assumed one, his right name being William Eisenmenger, and he has a stepfather named Herman Zimmerman, residing at 327 Whitesboro street in Utica, N. Y.

Right of Way.

Judge Greene some weeks ago decided the suit of Alameda county vs. Christine Munsen et al. in favor of the plaintiff, and the findings in the case were filed yesterday. The suit was brought to condemn certain private lands for a road between Haywards and Niles.

George Clark's Estate.

Dora S. Clark has applied to administer to the estate of George R. Clark, deceased, valued at 5,000. The heirs are the widow and two children of the deceased, who reside at Tulare.

Appraisers Appointed.

Judge Ellsworth has appointed H. Claussen, Robert Kirk, and J. L. Fields to appraise the estate of Abby T. Green, deceased.

A Small Estate.

The appraisement of the estate of E. D. Fitzpatrick, deceased, has been filed, which shows that he left property valued at $1500.

For twenty-five years the experience of million of sufferers, old and young, male and female, have greatly endorsed the miraculous values of

This Pharmaceutical Paradox of the Age.

A vitalizing stimulant without alcohol. A nerve sedative without narcotics. A blood purifier without poisons. A liver cleanser and not cathartic. A purely vegetable tissue-maker, promoting digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion and respiration. A life-giving tonic, pure and simple, without the disastrous reactions of the deadly compounds of rum and all cohol usually sold as bitters.

Was Never Known Before in the World.

Its discovery among the medicinal fruits roots and herbs of California

WAS A MIRACLE

and their combination into a phenomenal life-giving tonic

A TRIUMPH of the CHEMICAL ART.

The only change made in the formula during seven years has been to present it in two recommendations.

The old original remain unchanged, but bein stronger, more laxative and better. A new form more agreeable to the taste and better adapted to delicate women and children, but compricing the same tonic properties, is now made and the science of the world is challenged to produce an equal to or to produce a purely vegetable bitters or medicine of any kind whose action is at once so safe, so certain and comprehensive as the

or any compound which from its varied action upon the vital functions is equal to the

CURE OF SO MANY DISEASES.

Their name is legion—Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Sick Headache, Kidney Diseases, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and Bolls, Consumption, Piles and all disorders arising from indigestion, impure blood, a disordered liver, stomach and bowels, a low state of the system, and physical prostration, and dilapidated constitution from what cause soever arising, is at once subdued before the sun, while its singular power over

THE DEADLY MICROBE AND OMNIPRESENT BACTERIA

indicates its supremacy in all diseases of material origin, and renders it the

TRACED HITHER.

The Story of an Elopement From the East.

A WIFE ABANDONS HER FOND HUSBAND.

A Bank Book Left in a Hotel Room Aids in the Investigations About the Fugitives.

On the 11th of last month a well-dressed man, about 40 years old, walked into the Galindo Hotel, accompanied by a lady and four children, and registered as "Mr. and Mrs. Stack and family, Chicago." He asked for good apartments, and as he had the manner and appearance of a man of means, he was consigned to one of the best suites in the house, and entered into possession forthwith. By the method known only to good hotel clerks, Mr. Wright's clerical representative was not long before he found out who and what the guest was, and the object of his visit to Oakland.

Mr. Stack, it appeared, represented himself to be the inventor and patentee of a new sort of lubricating oil, and he hinted, when the subject was brought up, that he was looking about for a good location to establish a plant and that he was of the opinion that Oakland was just the place. He had a letter of credit on local banks to the amount of $2000, and lived freely and well, evidently little caring for any expenses he was called upon to meet. He stayed at the hotel only a few days however, leaving to take up his residence at a house on Eighth street, though he did not state what number when he and family and all his pertainings left the establishment.

A chambermaid, dusting out the apartments he and his family had occupied, found, the day after their departure, a bank book, with an account for Mrs. Louisa J. Wood, of Watertown, N. Y. She placed it in the office, and the clerk took charge of it and placed it in the rack, expecting that its loss would be discovered and that Mr. Stack would call for it in a day or so. Time rolled on and he did not come though, so the book was stored away and soon forgotten.

Its existence was called to memory again yesterday afternoon. A man called at the hotel and, presenting a card inscribed "W. B. Webber, representing Yates & Co., Importers of Oils, San Francisco," asked for information regarding Mr. Stack. The clerk told him what he knew, and then asked for some pointers in return, whereupon Mr. Webber stated that his firm had received a request from a Watertown bank asking that the letters of credit of Stack be discredited. The informant also said that the woman traveling with Stack is not his wife, but is the wife of a prominent resident in Watertown, and had eloped with Stack a short time ago. The missing pair had been traced to Oakland, and that is how the advices had come to be received.

A TRIBUNE man subsequently looked over the bank book found in the rooms occupied by the elopers, and the entries in it told a little tale themselves. As stated, the account was in the name of Mrs. Louisa J. Wood and is with the Jefferson Company Savings Bank, Washington and Stone streets, Watertown, N. Y. It is quite a lively running account, started in September, 1887, with a deposit of $125. It went quietly along until July 31, 1889, on which day a deposit of $350 was made and twenty-three days afterwards $20 30 was also paid in. Then came a quick succession of withdrawals in amounts of $100, $300 and once $850, terminating on January 3, 1890, with a debit entry of $5, which nearly closed the account.

Mrs. Stack or Wood is a good-looking woman, about 32 years of age and the four children, two boys and two girls, range in age from 5 to 12 years.

TO CLOSE THE BIG GAP.

Santa Barbara to Have a Direct Railroad to the Metropolis.

Colonel Crocker Accepts the Bonus of the San Jose Convention on Behalf of the Southern Pacific.

The telegraph brings news of great rejoicing in Santa Barbara because there is now a certainty that the coast railroad, connecting that city with San Francisco, will be completed. All that is necessary is the building of the line to close the gap between Santa Margarita and Elwood, and then all the coast counties, from the metropolis south to Santa Barbara, will boom with a new life.

At a convention held in San Jose on June 28th, composed of representatives from all the Coast counties affected, it was agreed to give the Southern Pacific a bonus of $300,000 and secure it the right of way if it would go ahead and close the gap. What has stirred Santa Barbara to so much enthusiasm is the following letter from Vice-President Charles F. Crocker, of the Southern Pacific, accepting the convention's terms and indicating that the future policy of his company is speedy extension and generous development:

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29.—Elwood Cooper, Santa Barbara, Cal.—DEAR SIR: A copy of the resolutions adopted by the convention recently held at San José, of which you were president, which accompanied your letter of the 26th ult., was forwarded to New York city for the consideration of the directors residing there, and I am now able to state to you the answer of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to the proposition made through those resolutions. We have favorably considered your proposition, and will make an agreement with an authorized committee covering the completion of the line of railroad between Santa Margarita and Elwood, asking, however, that the standing committee appointed by the convention for the purpose shall strike out the limitation of time mentioned in the resolution for completing the road. There will be no other modifications of importance desired by the company. Please inform me as to your wishes as to the time and place for a further conference on the subject. Yours respectfully,
CHARLES F. CROCKER.

There is little doubt felt that the counties can and will carry out their agreement. Tonight Santa Barbara is to hold a big ratification meeting, and President Elwood Cooper of the San Jose convention has called a meeting of the Executive Committee of three delegates from each of the interested counties, to meet in San Francisco on the 15th inst. to confer with the railroad authorities.

Church Entertainment.

A pleasant entertainment and concert was given last evening in the lecture room of the Second Congregational Church by the Ladies' Dime Society. This was one of a series of monthly entertainments for the benefit of the church fund. The programme, as usual, was characterized by a pleasing variety. The attendance last evening showed an increase over that of any previous socials, and this speaks well for the success of the entertainments. Last evening's programme was as follows:

Overture ..... Miss Wheeler
"Sailing of King Olaf" ..... Miss Frances Fulton
"Old Folks at Home" ..... Miss H. Prince
"Simon's Little Girl" ..... Miss Frances Fulton
Fantasia Ballet" ..... Mr. Wallace
"When Thou Art Near" ..... Mrs. H. C. Dexter
"She Would Be a Mason" ..... Miss Fulton
Carnaline ..... Miss Wallace
"The First Quarrel" ..... Miss Fulton
"La Gitana" ..... Miss Wheeler

After the concert all the attendance enjoyed cake and ice cream in the parlors of the church.

Dr. Dille's Postponed Lecture.

Rev. Dr. Dille was called to Pacific Grove this week by sickness in his family, and his lecture on "The South Revisited After Twenty-five Years" was postponed from last night to next Thursday evening, August 7th.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS.

Miss Frankie Leslie is Now Mrs. Frank Miller.

SHE IS SATISFIED AND WHO SHOULD CARE

Her Relatives Seem to Think They Should, but Mrs. Miller Says She is Her Own Mistress.

The neighborhood of Fifth and Market streets has been in eruption for the past two weeks by a bit of gossip, which has been told confidentially over back fences and through windows, about how pretty little Frankie Leslie the winsome belle of the neighborhood whose admirers could be counted on all one's fingers and toes had actually defied the protests of her loving father, her angry brother and her sorrowing mamma and eloped with Frank Miller the butcher, and as the neighbors retailed the delicious bit of gossip they lower their voice as they tell how Miller had had two wives before Frankie and that both were divorced from him and that his wedding present to the light-hearted girl who became Mrs. Miller number three had been his own three children by former wives who are now well grown little ones.

The story traveled through the block and then it got into the way of a TRIBUNE reporter.

The facts are these. On Monday, July 14th, Miss Frankie Leslie, pretty, plump and gay, disappeared from the residence of her parents at 915 Fifth street, and although every effort was made to find her she kept well out of the way of her anxious parents, who had grave suspicions that Frankie would do just what she did do. Frankie was a great friend of the Pierces who lived around the corner and her parents suspected that they were harboring the girl and kept a vigilant watch. Several times did Mr. Leslie call at the Pierce cottage but he was told on each time that Frankie was not with them. Then the neighbors helped the Leslies, and the result was that the parents of the girl obtained pretty trustworthy information that their girl was in that house, notwithstanding the denials of the Pierces. Then Mr. Leslie threatened police and a warrant and immediately thereafter came the startling information that Frankie, the belle of the block, had discarded all her younger admirers and had married Frank Miller, the butcher, his record and children, on Wednesday, the 16th.

Of course there was the usual denunciation by the parents. Miller should never cross their threshold, the Pierces would be prosecuted, and the runaway girl should be recovered at all hazards. But now? Miller might be prevented from crossing their threshold, but there was no evidence of collusion between the Pierces and Miller, and as for the girl, she is 22 years of age and her own mistress. Still there smoulders a spark of bitter hatred in the breasts of the Leslies, which needed but the gentle breeze of neighborly gossip to fan into a flame of passion that will spur them into one last effort to regain their daughter.

Miller is said to be a man 45 years of age, and conducts a butcher shop on Twelfth street, near West. He is regarded as a prosperous merchant by his fellow tradesmen, who assert that Miller is a good fellow, and that his unsuccess in matrimony has not always been his own fault.

This morning a TRIBUNE reporter called at 915 Fifth street and saw Mrs. Leslie, the mother of the girl. The lady was not at all backward in talking, but frankly stated that she does not like newspaper notoriety, still she expected the story would have to come sooner or later. She had never had any trouble with her daughter, she said, who always seemed to enjoy her comfortable home until she began going over to the Pierces' house.

She accused the Pierces of drugging her girl and having her married to Miller, and she openly accused the Pierces of keeping the girl imprisoned in their house. Since her daughter's marriage she said she had been unable to see the girl although her heart was breaking to see her. The girl had only known Miller a week before marrying him, and he had buried one wife and been divorced from two.

Miller lives in a substantial two story house at 1416 Filbert street, and the appearance of the residence is entirely in keeping with the prosperity he is supposed to enjoy. It is surrounded by a dainty little lawn, and the street in front is fragrant with the perfume of rare plants blooming before his door. To this house the reporter went, and after a cursory peek through the curtain the young bride herself appeared with two children apparently four or five years of age.

"Yes, I am Mrs. Miller," she said, "and you are the man I met at Piedmont last Sunday and had a fight over a parasol."

The reporter denied this soft impeachment and said he never bothered about the gew gaws of women, and told his business.

"Well, I haven't say a word about it. I guess it isn't anybody's business. I am nearly twenty-three years of age, and I guess I can do about as I please, if I want to. If the newspapers say anything about this they had better look out, because I will go right into court with it, and will make it hot for somebody."

"Is it true you were influenced in any way by the Pierces?"

"That story is an absurd one. I have heard of that, but it isn't so. I went to see my parents, but they would not see me, and now if they want to do so they must come out where I live. I am perfectly satisfied, and if I am satisfied it is no body's business. I was not at Pierces' on those two days, but I shan't say where I was. They objected to my marrying Mr. Miller because he had had two wives before me and because he has three children, but I am satisfied. I am his third wife, not his fourth one, as those people down there have it. Besides I had been going with Mr. Miller a month before I married him, and not a week," and then the lady exhibited her marriage license, with the name of the officiating clergyman attached, and, after giving warning of suits and arrest if the matter were published, she shut the door.

It was impossible to find anybody at the Pierce residence, so their side of the story could not be learned.

Miss Frankie Leslie that was, is a pleasant little woman, plump, and has rich, brown hair and a pair of sparkling eyes, that seem as if they take especial delight in looking at the romance in life.

ALAMEDA.

A Quiet Saturday in the Silent City by the Marsh.

The police made twenty-two arrests during July.

There were nine deaths in this city during July. In an estimated population of 11,250 the death rate is 9 96 per thousand inhabitants.

Miss Blanche Tisdale was riding on a Safety bicycle a few evenings ago, when the machine tipped over and the young lady's shoulderbone was broken.

The total cost of grading, curbing and macadamizing of San Jose avenue, from Versailles avenue to Paru street, was $21,738 91, or at the rate of $1 81 per front foot.

A corps of surveyors has been at work the past week running lines on the tract of land owned by the Southern Pacific Company, near Melrose. It is said that a race track is to be established there.

Moses Dohrman, whose wife has brought suit for divorce, went to his home on Pearl street, last evening, and commenced to annoy his wife. He falsely accused her of having him arrested, and greatly terrified her by his threats. Dohrman will have to answer a charge of sending obscene letters through the mails.

Joe Vasquez, employed as a clerk by Felix Marcuse at Bay street station, awoke a few mornings ago to find his wife and two children gone. Joe was not overcome at their disappearance because his wife had left him as suddenly on a previous occasion. He does not know where his wife went with the children, but thinks that she is at Rocklin with her parents.

The Alameda City Brass Band last evening serenaded the local newspaper offices and J. A. Leonard, the contractor of the band stand in the park. They then proceeded to the Yosemite Hotel, where refreshments were served. Although organized only a few months the band plays remarkably well, and already the citizens are proud of the musicians. Last evening many favorable compliments were passed, and frequently they were cheered.

A. M. Beveredge, who is the Alameda correspondent of the Examiner, is in bad straits, according to statements made by Police Officers Bray, Conrad, and Kamp, and many are wondering why he still remains in Alameda. They tell a bad story on him, which many believe. Yesterday he went into Mandler's restaurant, but Mandler refused to serve him. Beveredge says that there is a conspiracy to injure him, and denies the truth of the report spread by the policemen. The other newspapermen of Alameda do not like the conduct of Beveredge and refuse to associate with him, thinking that he brings disgrace on their calling by his numerous "jags."

SOLID SILVER AND GOLD.

The Magnificent Service For the New Cruiser, San Francisco.

It is Worth a Trip Across the Bay To See It—A Splendid Product of California Art and Generosity.

In the window of Geo. C. Shreve & Co. at the corner of Sutter and Montgomery streets, San Francisco, is something which it is worth a trip across the bay to see. This is the solid silver service just turned out of Geo. C. Shreve & Co.'s big factory from designs by the firm's artists for the cruiser San Francisco, the $7500 for making the service having been subscribed by many prominent citizens of San Francisco, so that the present might have the dignity of coming from the city after which the cruiser is named. Nothing richer, more massive, nor more beautiful in the line of silver service has ever been seen in California.

All the 32 pieces in the set are of solid sterling silver, with mountings and embellishments of 18-carat gold. A glorious punch bowl forms the largest piece in the collection. This stands on a circular silver salver with fluted rim, and has a cover on which the handle is a California grizzly in solid gold. In fact, this golden bear gives character to the entire service. The ladle of the big punch bowl is leaf-shaped and bears the gold grizzly upon its handle. The foot of the bowl itself and the lower portion of its swelling surface is brightly polished, and in a fluted pattern, and the rims of bowl and cover are similarly fluted and polished. The remainder of the bowl is in that soft, silky finish technically called "dead." Graven on the bowl and each piece of the service are the arms of San Francisco and the motto "Oro en paz, ferro en guerra," with a picture of the Golden Gate formed round the heraldic design and the words "San Francisco" beneath it. Three dozen exquisite punch glasses complete the set.

Then there is a smaller punch set, two splendid score tureens, ladles and trays; two beautiful tea sets, the largest on a heavy rectangular salver, which is one of the prize pieces of the magnificent collection; two large compoteers, two cake dishes and two water pitchers—these make up a service of which San Francisco and George C. Shreve & Co. have every reason to feel proud.

HOME INDUSTRIES.

Oakland Should Favor Her Own Productions.

A Brilliant Stroke of Enterprise by the Wentworth Boot and Shoe Company.

The prosperity of a city, like that of a nation, greatly depends on the harmony of its inhabitants, good government, and the protection and fostering of its home industries and manufactures. That the last named condition is by no means the least important of the three is very apparent after a few moments' reflection. The dollars paid to the workmen in the factories remain in the town and aid in building it up, whereas the absence of manufactures leads to the necessary exportation of money that might have been retained, and is therefore a continual drain on the floating capital.

It is, therefore, incumbent on every good citizen to patronize, as much as possible, the articles that are manufactured where he lives, and application of this obligation can be found in Oakland, as regards the factory of the Wentworth Boot and Shoe Company. It is five years ago now since the members of the company established themselves here, and, erecting large premises, near the Sixteenth street station, they at once set to work to show that they intended to make their stay permanent, by turning out wares fully equal to, if not better, than any that could be imported. An uptown retail establishment was obtained at 1039 Washington street, and from this location the company has continuously and does now, placed on the market a line of boots and shoes that has never failed to give the utmost satisfaction. The capital necessary for this enterprise was all brought here—none of it was obtained from a Board of Trade, such as was the case at Salem, Mass., North Adams and other places, which have from time to time, made bids for shoe factories.

And despite the heavy expenses of labor on the coast the Wentworth Company has always been able to successfully compete as regards prices, for although its wage-workers receive more than those in Eastern factories, yet it has no freight charges to defray, and again it places its goods directly on the market without the medium of any percentage-extorting jobber. An astonisher has been prepared for the residents of Oakland during the next thirty days.

The prices, low as they are now, are to be cut 10, 15 and even 20 per cent, for it has been decided to put a special line of 30,000 worth of goods on the market just to show the public what the company can do in the way of enterprise. Such a chance Oakland has never had before, and as the twofold purposes of encouraging home industry and obtaining wares far below their ordinary market prices can be served, there will, in all probability, be an extraordinary run on the favorite Washington street establishment.

Mayer's One Good Deed.

It is now said that just before committing suicide in front of the train at San Pablo, R. O. Mayer, the Austrian adventurer, burned and destroyed mortgages amounting to $20,000, held against poor farmers in Wisconsin. The suicide's estate, after all debts are paid, will amount to about $5000, and will escheat to the state instead of going to the young lady to whom he was engaged.

NATURAL GAS.

Roaring Wells North of Lake Merritt—Gas in Abundance.

The wildest kind of excitement has created north of Oakland by discovery of natural gas in abundance on one of the ranches north of Lake Merritt. The gas vein was discovered while a farmer was boring an artesian well on his property, and when ignited the flame is over 80 feet high and burns with a roar that can be heard for miles. The well has been plugged and a number of others are being bored by way of experiment. Yesterday when the news reached Oakland a rush was made for the field and never since the gold excitement has there been such an exodus. This afternoon the neighborhood of the well resembles a tented army field and hundreds of derricks have been erected already in hopes of striking gas in large quantity. Geologists who have examined the ground say it abounds in petroleum and no doubt the discovery is a valuable one.

To day thirty more men with their families went to the head of Lake Merritt and the People's Express and Transfer Company is having a busy day attending to their moving. Besides their general express and transfer business they make a specialty of checking baggage at your home to all parts of the world. Parties desiring to go to the new gas wells can summon a wagon through telephone 326, or at the office 423 Tenth street. A new well will be fired to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

BARTLETT SPRING MINERAL WATER.

Only One of the Thousand Remarkable Cures. A Trial will Convince anyone of its Curative Properties.

VIRGINIA, NEVADA, June 1, 1887.

During the winter of 1863-4, while serving in the army, I contracted, through exposure, Facial Neuralgia, and for nearly fifteen years suffered all the agonies imaginable. As every remedy known to the Pharmacopœia proved useless in curing this terrible pain, I was compelled to resort to opiates and other narcotics in enormous doses to procure even temporary ease. Through continued suffering from this Neuralgia, combined with the constant use of the most potent drugs, my constitution gradually became undermined; and in the summer of 1877 I discovered that I was attacked with Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, in addition to my previous sufferings. My feet became swollen with dropsical effusion, extending above the knees, making it impossible for me to wear boots or shoes for three months; and my condition was altogether such that I did not expect myself to live more than six months. Such opinion fully shared by all the physicians who saw me at that time. After trying in vain the customary remedies for this dangerous disease, I was told to try Bartlett Springs Water. I did so and after drinking here in town less than two gallons, the dropsical effusion in my limbs had disappeared completely. Shortly afterwards I had recovered sufficiently to bear the exertion of traveling, and I hastened to complete the cure so happily commenced by a sojourn at the springs themselves. Arriving there, I was so weak that I could not even walk from the hotel to the springs, but in a short time the liberal use of the water restored me so far that I could join in many of the more distant excursions of the guests. After remaining less than two months at Bartlett Springs, I returned to Virginia much improved, but continued the use of the water several months longer, with the result that I am completely cured of every ailment I had at that time. The Neuralgia has disappeared entirely, the last attack occurring in January, 1878, while the dropsical effusion has not shown itself since December, 1877. I feel better, generally, than I have for ten or fifteen years, and have gained over fifteen pounds in weight since January, 1878. For any disease of the Kidneys, the Urinary Organs, Rheumatism, Acute and Chronic Diseases of the Liver, and old Constitutional Diseases, I know of no better place to expect a cure than Bartlett Springs; and unable to travel, if even the liberal use of the water at a distant point will do much toward removing the above diseases. Having been a sufferer myself so long, I gratefully acknowledge the source whence the great boon of health came back to me. I consider it a duty to make this fact known to others in a similar condition, that they may profit by my experience.
